Arguments in Stillman Divorce Case Made in Supreme Court

CHARGE AGAINST MRS. STILLMAN

Counsel for New York Bank President Accuses Woman of Infidelity

Alleges She is Mother of Child By An Indian Guide—Decision Reserved

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 23.—A definite charge that Mrs. Anna U. Stillman, wife of James A. Stillman, president of the National City bank of New York, was the mother of a child by an Indian guide, was made in supreme court here today by counsel for Mr. Stillman, during preliminary arguments in the divorce suit the bank president has brought.

Addressing Justice Morschauser, who presided at the hearing on alimony and counsel fees, Delancy Nicoll, chief counsel for Mr. Stillman, said:

"Evidence already before you shows that Mrs. Stillman took as her lover an Indian guide by whom she had an infant son, whom Mr. Stillman must either acknowledge as a member of his family or repudiate as illegitimate.

Qurt Room Crowded

"This criminal infamy began in 1916 and continued through 1919. Mr. Stillman feels it his duty to his father's memory, to his family and to his children to press this matter to a conclusion.

"Had it been possible to do this otherwise than in court proceedings, we would have done it. But there was no other way than to make the mother and child co-defendants in a suit."

Mr. Nicoll said he could not understand the feelings of a father "whose wife yielded to the embraces of an Indian guide" but that he could understand why he would hesitate to take court action under such circumstances.

The hearing lasted only about half an hour. Justice Morschauser reserved decisions on motions of alimony of $10,000 a month and counsel fees of $25,000 for Mrs. Stillman.

Reporters Sit On Floor

When court opened today so many spectators crowded into the room that deputy sheriffs had to be stationed at the doors to prevent entrance of any more. Not only were all the seats filled, but many persons stood on the windowsills and reporters overflowing the jurybox, had to sit on the floor.

PLANS FOR STRIKE ARE HELD IN ABEYANCE

NEW YORK, March 23.—Plans for an immediate strike of employees already occupying townships in protest against wage cuts placed in effect March 1, were being held in abeyance today by the Marine Engineers Beneficial association, pending approval of its national executive committee.

Thomas B. Henley, head of the association here, said the immediate walkout was planned at a meeting here and a conference at Philadelphia yesterday. He added that William S. Brown, international president of the association had approved an immediate strike, and that he expected the executive committee to give its consent within 24 hours. The strike originally was set for April 1. More than 150 ocean-going towboats and about 2400 men would be affected, he said.

Members of the Atlantic coast Towboat Owners' association placed in effect the first of this month, monthly reductions of from $35 to $50 refusing to renew last year's wage agreement.

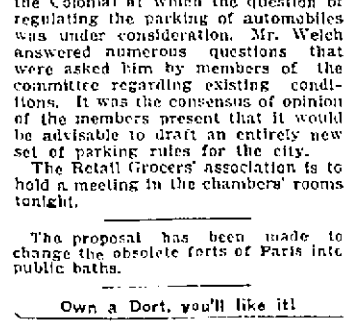

WELCH QUESTIONED ON PARKING RULES

Superintendent of Police Redmond Welch was present at a meeting at noon today of the Motor Vehicle committee of the chamber of commerce in the Colonial at which the question of regulating the parking of automobiles was under consideration. Mr. Welch answered numerous questions that were asked him by members of the committee regarding existing conditions. It was the consensus of opinion of the members present that it would be advisable to draft an entirely new set of parking rules for the city.

The Retail Grocers' association is to hold a meeting in the chambers' rooms tonight.

The proposal has been made to change the obsolete forts of Paris into public baths.

BLOODHOUNDS TRAIL BANDITS

Three Masked Men Robbed Every Passenger in Three Sleeping Cars

Took $3000 in Cash and Escaped in a Waiting Automobile

MUSKOGEE, Okla., March 23.—Bloodhounds today were on the trail of two masked bandits who boarded the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad's "Texas Special" at Denison, Tex., last night, robbed every passenger in three sleeping cars and escaped at McAlester. The loot was estimated at more than $3000 in cash.

As the train pulled out of Denison, the robbers began their work. One bandit carrying two pistols lined the passengers of the first car in the aisle while his companion searched the travelers, taking only cash.

The robber then ordered the door locked and proceeded to the second car and then to the last car. With them went the porter and the brakeman.

After they had finished their work the bandits ordered the brakeman to signal the engineer to stop and the train halted at the edge of McAlester. Passengers say they observed an automobile draw up to the train. The bandits leaped into the car and sped away.

In the meantime the conductor, who had been at the front of the train, learned of the holdup. He managed to attract the attention of the stationmaster at Kiowa, to whom he hung a note.

Word was flashed to McAlester where a posse was formed and awaited the train.

UNDER HEAVY GUARD

Men Held at New Orleans

Suspected of Knowledge of Wall St. Explosion

NEW ORLEANS, March 23.—The five men held in various jails from the American steamship line, who were brought from Rio de Janeiro at the request of the American consul there, still were held behind a screen of secrecy today. Detained technically at the parish jail on charges of mutiny on the high seas but said to be suspected of knowledge of the September 24 Wall street bomb explosion, they were allowed to have no visitors and were carefully guarded by federal and parish authorities. Whether they will be taken to New York for trial in connection with the bomb explosion or held here for trial on the charges of mutiny, will be decided by the investigation that Department of Justice agents are making.

So far as could be learned here the federal agents had not succeeded in linking them with the explosion but were still working on this angle of the case.

Just how their names were brought into the Wall street explosion has not been made clear.

THE LOWELL HIGH BASEBALL SQUAD

The first call for candidates for the Lowell high school baseball squad of 1921 will be issued by Coach Joseph P. Donahue within a few days, and the first practice of the season will be held in the school annex in Taylor street next Tuesday, when battery candidates will be summoned. Candidates for other positions will be called out Thursday for practice at the annex.

Coach Donahue hopes to have the players at Spaulding park for their first outdoor practice early in April. Just how soon outdoor practice will begin depends, of course, on the generosity of the weather.

There is every indication of Lowell high having one of the best nines of her history this year. The outfit will be built around seven or eight veterans who have made good in previous years. Capt. O'Hare will be captain at his old position in the outfield. Outfield will be on the mound again, and with three years' experience behind him, he should have a most successful year. Ray Liston is looked to for a duplication of last year's good work behind the bat, and Gus Cahill and Ed Condon in the infield, will bring in the team plenty of confidence resulting from their past experience.

Cahill will play first base again and Condon second, but on the other side of the infield, Coach Donahue finds a healthy hole staring him in the face. Ray Reynolds, last year's crack short stop, will play with Textile this spring while Brosnan, who held down third base last year, is also among the players to be graduated some excellent baseball material last June, and much of it will find its way into the ranks of the high school nine this year, so there is every possibility that the infield will be properly taken care of.

Among the other veterans who will return this year to help put across a victorious season are Gregory McAdams and Willard, both of whom did good work last year.

Lowell's first game comes on April 19 at Spaulding park, when the red and the gray will meet Townsend high.

BITTER ATTACK BY LLOYD GEORGE

Great Peril Now is Rise to Power of New Party, Says Premier

"Calls Itself 'Labor,' But is Really Socialist"—Tearing Parties to Pieces

LONDON, March 23.—(By Associated Press)—A bitter attack on socialism was made by Premier Lloyd George in a speech at a luncheon today of "the new members of the coalition group" as the participants in the luncheon party were styled.

"The military dangers which united the parties have disappeared," he said, "but greater, more insidious, more permanent dangers still confront us. The great peril is the rise to power of a new party with new purposes of the most subversive character."

"It calls itself 'labor.' It is really socialist. It is tearing the parties to pieces and on its way to tearing socialists to pieces. Those who are inclined to agree with Mr. Asquith and Lord Balfour, that the labor party is a body should read the socialist and labor papers for a week."

"Socialists in fighting to destroy everything that the great prophets and leaders of both parties—unionist and liberal—have labored for generations to uphold. Parliamentary institutions are as much menaced as private enterprise and the rule of class organization is to be substituted for them."

"Those still inclined to regard the labor party as a body should look at the bye-election of 1920 and 1921. The addition of four per cent. would put the socialists in the majority, and there is a margin of 15 to 20 per cent. who do not vote."

"Suppose that by the working up of grievances the coalition was defeated and the socialists won a majority. They would not seek to remove these grievances, but would rip out the whole system of society."

The prime minister asked those who realized the danger to close their ranks. They must take all possible steps, he said, to instruct the electors who must at no distant date decide the issue.

Telegraph Wires Cut

BELFAST, March 23.—(By Associated Press)—The telegraph wires between Belfast and Dublin were cut last evening.

The authorities today expressed belief that this act was in preparation for possible Sinn Fein activity during Easter week.

Bodies of Brothers Found

BELFAST, March 23.—The bodies of two brothers, James and John Skelton, former soldiers, were found in a field near Inishcassidy yesterday, labelled "spies." The men had been forcibly removed from their homes late last night and shot dead.

Two Policemen Killed

DUBLIN, March 23.—Two policemen were killed and one was wounded in an ambush in Keadow, County Roscommon, yesterday.

A bomb was thrown in the Dundrum residential suburb of Dublin Monday evening, wounding two constables.

Two men were shot dead, three hurt in a building and hall set on fire during a general Sinn Fein attack in Rosetta, County Fermanagh, according to official accounts received here yesterday.

Attacks Repelled

BELFAST, March 23.—(By Associated Press)—Two brothers, named McCann, successfully held their house, near Monaghan, yesterday, against an attack of 200 Sinn Fein men. Every window in the building was shattered.

The brothers used revolvers and shotguns with such effect that the besiegers were felled in their attempt to burn the house and adjacent buildings.

DEBATE NAVAL ARMAMENT

A debate, held under the auspices of the Greenhalgh Debating society took place in the Centra town hall yesterday afternoon. The subject under consideration was: "Resolved that the United States should reduce its naval armament to a minimum."

LEAVE TO WITHDRAW

Herbert S. Russell of North Chelmsford, who had filed a petition with the board of selectmen for the town of Billerica for permission to conduct a moving picture show two evenings a week in the Centra town hall, was given leave to withdraw his petition after a hearing on the matter was held last evening. There were several remonstrants, while only two spoke in favor of granting the petition.

TO BUILD BIG GARAGE

The inspector of public buildings today issued a permit to Samuel M. and Max L. Katz for the erection of a large modern high school building at the corner of Brookings and Amory streets, the estimated cost being $25,000. The building will be one story in height and will be of brick construction with a concrete foundation.

There are more than 17,000 high schools in the United States attended by 1,735,519 pupils.

Social Worker Talks On "Our Neighbors Around the World"

Believes Japan Will Have National Prohibition Within the Next Ten Years

Philippines Want Independence With American Army and Navy Protection

"Do not be surprised if you find national prohibition in Japan within the next ten years," said Robert Woods, pioneer American social worker, last evening at high school hall, in an address on "Our Neighbors Around the World." The affair was under the auspices of the Monday club.

Mr. Woods stated his conviction that east is west, telling his hearers that in the Orient receptive people are discovered, eager for new accidental conceptions. Many of the Chinese are adept at speaking the English language, while in Japan the learning of that tongue is compulsory. In India the speaking of English is an inevitable mark of education. Everywhere there are newspapers printed in English.

"The first leg of our journey," said Mr. Woods, "found us still on United States soil."

STREET RAILWAY HOME RULE COMMITTEE

The street railway home rule committee will meet at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the mayor's reception room, city hall, and will probably take some action on the recent introduction of an order in the legislature providing for an investigation of the feasibility of a five-cent fare in Lowell.

The committee made a recommendation to the trustees some time ago that a five-cent fare be established on local lines, but it was told that the road was not in a financial condition that would warrant such an experiment unless the municipality should agree to make up whatever deficit occurred under such an arrangement.

CARD. GIBBONS IS NEAR DEATH

All Hope for Recovery of Aged Prelate Abandoned By Members of Household

Suffered Relapse Last Sunday—Conscious Only Part of the Time

BALTIMORE, March 23.—Cardinal Gibbons, who suffered a relapse last Sunday, was reported to be in a critical condition today. He is conscious only part of the time and virtually all hope for his recovery has been abandoned by members of his household who had clung to the belief that the prelate's naturally vigorous constitution would pull him through the present attack as it had those of the past.

The cardinal passed a restless night and was weaker this morning. His condition at mid-day was said to be unchanged, a little weaker if anything.

Ever since he was taken ill, the cardinal's condition has shown marked reactions to extreme weather conditions. During the cold spell some weeks ago, he suffered a relapse it was learned today, but recovered from it in a few days and was able to resume his daily rides.

He took the last of these rides on Palm Sunday. When he returned it was seen that the heat was exerting a weakening effect upon him. He was at once put to bed and everything possible was done to stimulate his heart action. He has since had several of the sinking spells that are dreaded.

Since his return in January to the archiepiscopal residence from the home of friends at Union Mills, Md., where he became seriously ill, last December, the cardinal's condition apparently had continued to improve until Sunday. He was able to take automobile rides almost daily and to walk about his home.

When a change for the worst occurred last Sunday night, announcement was withheld in the hope that the bad turn would prove to be only temporary.

In December Cardinal Gibbons suffered a general breakdown due to his unremitting devotion to his diocesan duties in spite of his 86 years. Evidence that the strain was beginning to tell on him was given as early as Nov. 7 when he was seized with a momentary faintness while delivering a sermon at Havre de Grace.

WANTS LOWELL LESS SATISFIED

Contributor to Sun Symposium Says Discontent Will Bring Better Days

Also Calls for Wider Education in Problems of Municipal Government

The Sun publishes another contribution today to its symposium on "What Lowell needs most at the present time." The name of the contributor is withheld by request. He has not been in Lowell as long as some of the rest of us, and has observed things from a slightly different point of view than those of us who have lived here many years. The contribution follows: "Let me say first, in attempting to answer your question, that if my criticism of Lowell shall at any time seem a bit sharp, it is nevertheless inspired by the friendliest spirit. The fellows who come up to us and clap us on the back and tell us that we are fine chaps are not always as truly friends as those who sometimes have the courage to take us down a bit by reminding us that we are not quite so nearly perfect as we thought we were.

"An interesting story is told of Lord Northcliffe of England, owner of the London Times, the London Daily Mail, and a host of other publications. The Mail has been considered in times past the world's greatest newspaper.

He Was Satisfied
"One day Lord Northcliffe met an employee of the Mail passing along a corridor. 'How do you like your position on the paper?' he inquired, asked. 'Fine, I am perfectly satisfied,' was the answer. 'Perfectly satisfied, eh?' was the response. 'You can consider your connection with the Mail ended at the close of two weeks; we want no men who are satisfied on this paper.'

"Lowell, it seems to me has gotten well satisfied with itself on the whole. There is some spluttering and grumbling occasionally about this or that member of the family, or some object.

tion to some feature of the residence that may result in a patch being put on somewhere or a piece of new furniture purchased.

"On the whole, though, we are pretty well satisfied with the old town as it is, and the best evidence of this is that if we didn't like it we should get up and go at the work of fixing it up as we think it ought to be pretty quick.

Ancestry Worship
"We have something of the spirit of ancestry worship here. We look around us and we think that our fathers and perhaps grandfathers got along very well with things as they are; why should anyone wish to change them?"

"There is more than one kind of dissatisfaction. There is the grumbling, sour dissatisfaction to which nothing is good, and to which fault-finding is a normal accompaniment. That of course is not the kind of dissatisfaction that I mean. If we have family skeletons let us keep our mouths shut about them. Let us boast Lowell and boast about Lowell every hour in every day in the week. Let us be resolved, though, that we shall do our part to make it a town really worth boasting about.

"There is a kind of dissatisfaction that has been described as 'a divine discontent.' When we get to feeling that dissatisfaction deep enough and completely enough, things will be done in this old city that ought to be done, and I doubt if they are before.

One Other Need
"There is one more thing that I believe Lowell needs. The test of modern democracy is coming in the cities of America. Lowell's problems in this respect are not greatly different from those in other places. But we all recognize that they must be solved. One of the great solvents for untoward conditions through the ages has been education. A stream can rise no higher than its source. It is the plain, ordinary everyday men and women, that are in the streets and in the homes, that make the city government, and it may be stated as an axiom of truth that they want good, efficient, honest, honorable government.

"But how many of the voters who select our officials of government have the slightest real knowledge of municipal affairs or of the fundamental principles of municipal government? Very few. They vote for this candidate or that candidate because he happens to belong to the same club, church, or social circle. Or it may be that the voter is influenced by some wild, improbable statement or promise that a candidate has made.

Extending Through School
"My wish would be that Lowell might have a course of instruction in municipal government beginning in the eighth grade and extending through the high school. I do not mean the conventional course in civil government, but a study of up-to-date works on the applied science of governing cities. I would have public school classes attend sessions of the municipal council that they may have actual knowledge of the way in which the business of the city is transacted. I would have sections of classes visit the different city departments and use them for laboratory demonstrations of the actual way in which the work of carrying on the work of the city is done.

"With an electorate so education, I do not believe that we should need to have fear for the future of Lowell."

BATTLE FOR ESTATE
Widow is Fighting Ward of Syracuse Man

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 22.—Discovery that Thomas Ryan, three times mayor of Syracuse and wealthy president of the Thomas Ryan Consumers' Brewing company, left a third will is the latest development in a long legal fight being waged by Mrs. Jennie Ryan, the widow, against Mrs. Florence May Ryan Myron, the ward of Ryan.

Ryan, for years a power in upstate democratic politics, left an estate of approximately $500,000. The third will, to be offered shortly for probate is in possession of Attorney John Walrath, former district attorney.

It is said to have been made Feb. 18 of this year.

Although its provisions have not been announced, they are said to be practically the same as those of a will drafted in October, 1920, making Mrs. Myron chief beneficiary.

Earlier Document
The Ryan will of 1914 is the one that Ryan's relatives are asking to have probated.

The petition charges duress and undue influence in the making of the 1920 will.

While Mrs. Ryan is out of with a $10,000 annuity in all wills produced to date, nephews and grand-nephews of the Ryan also suffer in the 1920 will.

Strife between Ryan, Mrs. Ryan and Ryan's ward have occupied public attention during the last year.

Mrs. Ryan resisted vigorously Ryan's attempts to adopt legally Mrs. Myron. She even succeeded in having a law passed by the state legislature amending the adoption law to bar forever the adoption unless with her consent.

Ryan explained his desire to provide for the woman he considered his foster-daughter in the 1920 testament, which said:

"The provisions herein in favor of Florence Ryan Ryan are made to her because she has stood in and occupied the relation to me of a daughter since infancy, although not legally adopted, and I feel that in making these provisions in her favor that I am simply recognizing the obligation which I owe her and her family."

EMBASSIES GO DRY
Woman's Ruling Spells "Drought" for Ambassadors

(Special to The Sun.)
WASHINGTON, March 22.—Society has new conversation. And the diplomatic set is protesting. All because a woman has shut off the after-dinner cordials.

The woman is Mrs. Annette Adams, assistant attorney-general, who has had charge of the prohibition branch of the department of justice.

In the hurry incident to the wind-up of the outgoing administration she laid down an opinion on a ruling which prevents the transit of whiskey, ales, wines, liquors and such. And it goes.

Pending reversal of the opinion, the "foreign territory" on the 16th street, where most of the embassies and legations are located, must depend on previously acquired stock or go dry.

WANT NOBLE FIGURE?

Then Cultivate Nobility of Mind, Says Doctor

NEW YORK, March 23.—Fashionable? If so, you are probably—all wrong physically.

Dr. D. M. Dunn of the Life Extension Institute says only 30 per cent. of the 1500 women she examines a year are properly corseted. And 20 wear shoes that ruin the feet.

Dr. Dunn says that the most stubborn woman is the "smart" one.

"A correct corset is a help to the physique," says Dr. Dunn; "the wrong corset deprives you of half the number of breaths you should take per minute."

"As for shoes, high heels break the normal line of the body, giving an acute pitch to the spine."

"Nobility of mind," says Dr. Dunn, "makes the noble figure."

The first English bible was printed in 1535.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

"THREE VOICES"

THE TWINS AND THEIR COMPANION WISHED THEMSELVES THE LITTLEST THING YOU EVER SAW.

After Gyp the Giraffe had swallowed about half a bushel of delicious leaves, he started to change "em around, just as a cow does the grass she has eaten, which is a peculiar way of doing; he'd snip the leaves off the tree and swallow them whole into one of his tummies.

But tummies don't like things swallowed whole, as we all know, so Gyp did his tummy a favor by rolling the leaves up his long throat into his mouth again.

This time he chewed and he chewed and he chewed until the leaves were nice and soft and just right. Then he swallowed them a second time and put them nicely away into a second tummy.

While he was doing this, he heard voices near, for although a giraffe can not talk nor make any kind of a sound, he can hear splendidly.

"One voice said, 'Don't you love a circus?'"

Gyp pricked up his ears. He was interested in circuses having recently run away from one.

"My, yes!" answered another voice. "I like circuses better than movies or the Fourth of July. Nearly as well as Christmas."

Gyp listened and chewed and chewed and listened.

"What do you like best in the circus?" asked the third voice.

"Guess," said the second voice mysteriously. "This is interesting," thought Gyp, peering through the trees, but unable to see anything. Though, had he known that the owner of one voice sat on one of his ears, the owner of the second voice, on the other ear, and the owner of the third voice (Pippety-Flap, the fairyman) one of his flapping horns.

Having magic along, the twins and their companion had wished themselves LITTLEST THINGS YOU EVER SAW.

Pittsburg Man Makes Wonderful Statement

Declares Tanlac Enabled Him to Eat Better, Sleep Better and Work Better.—Has Gained Thirty Pounds.

HARRY M. ALLEN,
Of Pittsburg, Pa.

"I consider Tanlac the greatest medicine in the world. For I have actually gained 30 pounds in weight since I began taking it. It has just simply filled me with new life and energy and for the first time in years I can sit down to the table and enjoy three square meals a day like other people. In fact Tanlac has made me eat better, feel better, sleep better and work better, and I guess that's all a man can expect of a medicine."

"Before I took Tanlac, I was off 25 pounds in weight and was so badly run down I was hardly able to do my work. Nothing seemed to agree with me and my food invariably soured on my stomach. I would always have an uncomfortable bloated up feeling in my stomach, and although I tried many kinds of medicines, I never got relief until I took Tanlac."

"I also suffered considerably at times from Rheumatism, but this has all disappeared. In fact, this wonderful medicine has made a new man out of me in every way. I feel years younger and can do as much work as in any day of my life."

"Of course, I am only too glad to give you my testimonial because I want other people who are suffering as I did to take this medicine and get relief."

The above remarkable statement was made by Harry M. Allen, residing at 1009 Saint Martin Street, Pittsburg, Pa., a well known employee of the Oil-Ver Iron and Steel Company of that city. Mr. Allen is a well known member of the United Presbyterian church and is highly respected by all who know him.

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass., Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By Theatres' Own Press Agents)

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Final performance of "The Faith Healer," the big George D. Melford production, and "The Passionate Pilgrim," Samuel Merwin's famous story, will be given at the Merrimack Square theatre this evening. Tomorrow there will be an entire change of program.

The features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be especially appealing to the season. "The Stealers," which has been termed "the play with a soul," will be the leading attraction and the other big feature will be "Bunty Pulls the Strings," one of the most delightful plays that ever found its way to the American stage.

"The Stealers," as its name implies, is a crook play, but it is the most remarkable play of its sort. The central figure, and the one around whom all of the vile action of the piece revolves, is a clergyman who turns his calling into what he believes a vast mockery of God through the aid of God's word as a device for his band of travelling crooks of which he is the head.

The master-thief, fitted with rare eloquence, holds his audience spellbound while his confederates among the enchanted auditors relieving them of money and jewelry. How this scoundrel eventually repents of his wrongs and again turns to the God he had scorned and blasphemed goes to make a climax unequalled on the American stage or screen for the sheer intensity of its dramatic force.

The picture has been announced as Mr. Cabanne's masterpiece. From the enthusiastic manner in which it has been hailed by the critics it undoubtedly is. And no wonder. The story has been revolving in Mr. Cabanne's mind for years waiting the time when it should be transcribed into a burning, living entity.

In "Bunty Pulls the Strings," the part of Bunty is played by Legat, a boy who is rapidly rising to fame in the film world. The manner in which she pulls the strings that involve Tan, her stern old father, played by Russell Simpson, who made such a hit in "Godless Men," and "Yellow" her lover, played by Raymond Hatton, the celebrated character actor, gives Miss Joy an opportunity not only to display her good looks, but her real ability as an actress as well. Others in the cast include Cullen Landis, who scored in "It's a Great Life," recently Casson Ferguson, Edythe Chapman, Josephine Crowell and Otto Hoffman.

A comedy and the International News will round out the bill.

OPERA HOUSE

"East Lynne," the dramatization from the novel by Mrs. Henry Wood, which is being so capably presented this week by the Lowell Players at the Opera House, has every element that is to be found in a successful stage offering. That's why this particular piece has come down the half-century of seasons and is today quite as strong a drawing card as any in stock circles. It has real human interest, and pathos that is cleverly interwoven in the main theme. And besides the story serves as a timely sermon of absorbing interest. The play is being presented by the Lowell Players, with Byron in the lead, handle the piece with remarkable skill. See it and be thoroughly entertained. Order early for the remaining performances.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"Lou and Jean Archer, who present 'Tailor-Made' at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week, are not only singers and dancers but actual producers of a spectacular piece has come down the half-century of seasons and is today quite as strong a drawing card as any in stock circles. It has real human interest, and pathos that is cleverly interwoven in the main theme. And besides the story serves as a timely sermon of absorbing interest. The play is being presented by the Lowell Players, with Byron in the lead, handle the piece with remarkable skill. See it and be thoroughly entertained. Order early for the remaining performances."

THE STRAND

Eugene O'Brien in "Broadway and Home," Will Rogers in "Home Sweet Home," and Mary Pickford in "Sister Sam" will be shown for the last time today on the Strand screen. The program of the feature program is unquestionably one of the greatest picture treats that local movie fans have ever had an opportunity to enjoy and the presence of large audiences can be expected to the fact that the efforts of the management are being greatly appreciated. See it today or miss a great treat. Beginning tomorrow and continuing

ISOLATION HOSPITAL

Cost of Maintenance Contained in Finance Report

Exclusive of salaries, the maintenance of the new isolation hospital during the months of January and February cost the city of Lowell $8935, according to the report of the finance commissioner for those two months. If this rate of expenditure is kept up for the rest of the year, the maintenance of the new building will cost $53,615.

In the compilation of the annual budget Mayor Perry D. Thompson estimated the hospital salary and wage schedule at $40,019 for the year. This would bring the total cost of running the hospital to $93,635 if the expenditures of the remaining months of the year are on a par with those of January and February.

The municipal council voted an appropriation of $75,000 for the isolation hospital when it completed its budget last year and this means that there must be a reduction in the "outgo" department if the institution is to function within its available resources.

Other items of interest which appear in the finance report include $203.29 paid the Yoric club for the entertainment of the charter commission, $47,475.40 paid William Drapman as per his contract for the erection of the memorial auditorium, $144,801 to Blackall, Clapp and Williams for their services as architects of the auditorium, $199,120.72 paid Daniel H.

Katherine MacDonald's latest picture, "My Lady's Lute," is making its last appearance at the Rialto theatre today and if you want to see the "American beauty" in her best form you should not fail to take it in. The bill also carries a continuation of "The Son of Tarzan," a Vitaphone comedy, "The Decorator," a Ford weekly and the Fox news. Beginning tomorrow there will be a complete change of program, introducing May Glynn in "The Redhead," Charles Davis in "Smiling All the Way," a Buster Keaton comedy, "Movie Mad," Episode five of "Fighting Fate," and the Fox news.

GEN. WOOD TO RETIRE FROM ARMY

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Major General Leonard Wood will retire from active service in the army to become the head of Pennsylvania university, after he returns from the Philippines. It was learned yesterday at the war department.

The general notified Secretary Weeks yesterday that if he was nominated for the university post, as he was last night, he would desire to go on the retired list as soon as he had completed his mission in the Far East. The real reason for the Wood-Forbes mission to the Philippines and the searching investigation of conditions to be made in the islands is to determine whether the Philippines are ready for independence, Secretary Weeks said today. The mission's report, he said, will be made the basis for the hardening administration's Philippine policy.

"Former President Wilson was apparently convinced," Mr. Weeks said, "that the Philippines were ready for independence and he urged congress to grant their wishes. There seems now to be reason to doubt that the people of the Philippines are ready for entire independence. It is expected that the Wood-Forbes mission will settle the question."

Secretary Weeks also explained that Gen. Wood and his colleagues on the

AUTO TRUCK OWNERS FIGHT INCREASE

BOSTON, March 23.—The railroad of New England have definitely abandoned their short haul business to the motor truck and will never attempt to regain it, according to Chairman John N. Cole of the state department of public works, who appeared yesterday before the legislative committee on ways and means to press his bills for increases in motor truck fees.

The statement was made after a small army of motor truck owners and manufacturers had registered their opposition to the increases, which run as high as 50 per cent. The automobile men insisted that they already pay high fees, and that the cost of maintaining highways be met by taxation of the general public, which shares in the advantages of good roads.

Cole Gives Figures

Commissioner Cole told the committee that the proposed increases would give the state $2,040,710 additional revenue for highway improvements, which with city, town and county appropriations would total $30,265,341 in road benefits in the state during the coming year.

Taking the five-ton truck as an example, he pointed out that the proposed fee of $150 a year represents less than 2 per cent of the cost of operation for the year, including the investment on $6000, the price of the truck. He compared this with the 15 per cent of operating costs, which the railroads of the state devote to maintenance of the way.

In 1915, he said, with only 102,633 cars registered to the state, the highway department expended an average of $9.65 a car, whereas last year with an increase in number of cars to 304,135, the money available for roads to each car averaged only $9.05, in spite of the tremendous increase in the cost of road construction.

Spoke in Opposition

William A. Tibbodeau, general counsel for the Automobile Legal association, opposing the proposed increased fees, pointed out the fees which motorists paid in 1920, with federal aid, totaled $5,000,000. The cost of maintenance, construction, overhead and other expenses of the highway department totaled $5,150,000, he said, leaving a surplus of $221,633.

This demonstrated, he said, there was absolutely no occasion for the increase. Automobiles of the state, he stated, are taxed directly to the amount of $12,800,681. He estimated the total receipts of the state from registration fees and federal aid, for 1921 would be $5,000,000, leaving about $3,000,000 for additional road building.

Others who opposed the bill included Senator James F. Cavanaugh, president of the Northway Motors Co. He said the bill was strong in principle. It would be preposterous, he declared, to build new roads out of the proposed increased fees.

Norman Halliday of the Mack Motor Truck Co., representing 200 motor truck owners, asserted if the matter went to a referendum the people of the state would prefer to subsidize rather than tax motor trucks.

Fred S. Howard, president of the

Worcester Automobile association, and vice president of the Automobile club, said all the 350 members, he represented himself the increase.

Patrick J. Lane, of the Master Furniture Movers Association of Massachusetts, appeared in opposition for 1000 members, using 3000 trucks and employing about 5000. Michael J. Shannon, president of the association, also spoke in opposition.

Senator Martin J. Quinn of Swampscott said the committee should give the bill careful consideration.

Raymond Rowe, president of the New England Road Builders association, representing 2000 truck owners, said his organization would pay the increased fees, if necessary. He agreed with Commissioner Cole that roads in the state needed to be improved, to some extent, but that they were not in bad shape.

Many other speakers opposed the bill.

LOWELL MAN MISSING WHEN CASE IS CALLED

LAWRENCE, March 23.—Michael Gardner of Lowell, charged with the larceny of diamonds valued at $1700 from Esther Barlow, proprietor of a jewelry shop at 10 Pemberton street, and also with the larceny of jewelry from Franz Schneider, proprietor of Schneider's jewelry store at 21 Essex street, appeared for trial, but shortly before his case was called he suddenly disappeared and Judge Mahoney, after defaulting him, ordered that a capias be issued for his arrest immediately.

Counsel for the defendant, who was in the court room when the case was called, was himself somewhat in a quandary as to his client's disappearance.

In February, 1919, Gardner is alleged to have snatched a tray of diamonds at the Barlow jewelry store. He made good his escape at that time through an alleyway. Prior to the last robbery he is alleged to have stolen diamonds at the Schneider jewelry store. Proprietors of both places have identified him as the man who committed the thefts.

The bail which he defaulted was $4000 and this had been furnished by Jacob Popkan of Boston, who is believed to be a professional bondsman. The surety was in real estate.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

JOINT ATTACK ON IRISH POLICY

LONDON, March 23.—Independent liberals and laborites were expected to make a joint attack upon the government's Irish policy at today's session of the house of commons. It was understood that they intended to press their arguments for a renewal of peace negotiations at the point where they were interrupted last December. They were also ready to insist that the government waive its demand that Sinn Féin surrender their arms before the peace parleys were commenced.

Prime Minister Lloyd George was prepared to reply to addresses by H. H. Asquith and John Robert Clynes, both of whom were to speak during the day.

SEC. WEEKS WOULD PROMOTE LIGGETT

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Another effort probably will be made to obtain promotion to the rank of lieutenant general for Maj. Gen. Hunter Liggett, who retired from active service Monday.

Secretary Weeks said yesterday that he was very favorably inclined toward rewarding Gen. Liggett for his distinguished service, and that if there appeared to be any change in that regard, he would reconsider his previous action and assent to the promotion, another recommendation would be forwarded from the war department.

ADMITS R. R. HAD SPY SYSTEM

Gen. Atterbury Questioned
at R. R. Labor Board Hearing Yesterday

Walsh Charges Spies and
Arsenals Maintained to Handle Labor Troubles

CHICAGO, March 23.—Charges that the Pennsylvania railroad was fighting for the open shop and that the road maintained a spy system before the war, were the subjects of a heated, all-day discussion before the Railroad Labor Board yesterday.

Brig. Gen. W. W. Atterbury, vice-president of the Pennsylvania, charged the unions with attempting to force the closed shop, and Frank P. Walsh, labor attorney, retorted with declarations that the Pennsylvania had maintained spies and arsenals to take care of labor troubles.

The whole day's testimony revolved about Gen. Atterbury's stand that he could negotiate agreements with his own employees, but that no just and reasonable agreements applicable to the entire country could be written for any one.

He also maintained the right of the minority to a voice and charged the unions with assuming to represent all employees and using coercion in attempting to make them join the union.

Atterbury Walsh opened his charges of a spy system on the Pennsylvania with a statement that $500,000 had been spent in 1917 on the road's police system. Gen. Atterbury explained that this amount covered all protective measures, such as crossing watchmen, and similar employees. Under questioning, however, he admitted that the road did maintain a spy system but declared he could not say how much had been spent on that department.

When Mr. Walsh asked the witness if the road did have "little arsenals at various points where you kept guns and revolvers," Chairman R. M. Barton halted the examination on the ground that it was getting away from the inquiry ordered by the board. Several board members joined in the later discussion, but C. A. Wharton, labor member, finally insisted that the examinations continue.

Mr. Walsh then explained that the rule on discrimination against any employee because of union affiliation was the "most important rule there is." His questions, he said, were intended to show that "a situation might arise and had arisen on the Pennsylvania where the road could not be settled despite Gen. Atterbury's statement that all the men on the road had grown up together."

Gen. Atterbury introduced a union

Louis Kurz, Artist, of Chicago, Dead

CHICAGO, March 23.—Louis Kurz, a widely known artist and friend of President Lincoln, is dead at his home here. His sketches of the battlefields of the Civil war were the first to be issued after the close of the conflict.

bulletin which informed shop craft employees that there would be no seniority provisions for, or positions provided for, any other than the employees and members of the organization affiliated with the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor. This bulletin asserted, to force non-union men to join the union under fear of losing their seniority rights. A closed shop, either union or non-union, was denounced by the general, who said a worker should have the right to be or not to be a union man.

Allegations against the Pennsylvania were in turn brought up by Mr. Walsh, who read a copy of a letter purporting to have been written by J. W. Geer, general manager of the St. Louis-Columbus division of the Pennsylvania, in which supervisory employees were ordered "even to resort to defamation of all labor organizations, if necessary," to obtain certain information. The letter asked officials to inquire into the attitude of employees regarding proposed wage reductions and was dated March 19, 1921. Gen. Atterbury declared he had never heard of the letter and after calling Mr. Geer in St. Louis by telephone, announced that Mr. Geer denied he had written such a letter and declared no such letter had been written with his authority.

The matter would be investigated at once, Gen. Atterbury said.

Two votes on piece work taken by the unions, showing 93 per cent. of the employees in favor of the hourly basis of pay, were not fair, Gen. Atterbury said, and declined to accept the union figures as fair.

"The open ballot as conducted by these organizations is not a fair nor a decent one," said the witness. "To have the men vote so that they may be intimidated if they don't vote the way their officers want them to vote is not a decent way to ask a decent man to vote."

Taking up Gen. Atterbury's minority reports as chairman of the Railroad Executive labor committee in which he stood against national boards of adjustment, Mr. Walsh opened a series of questions on the statements of the minority group. Gen. Atterbury declared that national boards would lead to nationalization and syndicalism, and cited William Z. Foster as "a syndicalist and A. E. of L. leader" representative of the class by which railroads were menaced. The general also read from a declaration of principles by the Cleveland chamber of commerce and signed among others by Warren S. Dope, president of the engineers and W. J. Lee, head of the trainmen. This declaration said, "freedom of contract should never be impaired," and declared employees and employers should negotiate agreements for their own guidance. This principle, Gen. Atterbury said, was the same on which the railroads took their stand.

Bavaria Not to Dissolve Militia

PARIS, March 23.—Decision not to dissolve militia organizations and the Einwohnerwehr, or citizen guard in Bavaria, has been reached by a unanimous vote by the Bavarian government, says a Berlin despatch to the Journal.

with me at length. I am convinced that the Japanese cabinet possesses a really human viewpoint. They are constantly trying to create a liberal policy of the conservative. Liberal sentiments are growing all the time in Japan, and are fronting the militarists, who may be compared to the war party in Germany prior to the debacle of the central powers. Before I left Osaka, called the Chicago of Japan, and a city which became immensely prosperous through war industries, I was invited to address an audience of prominent men. I told them how, in the movement against infant blindness, how new physicians must report all cases of activities on the part of the state, the blind expect to go out of hospitals within 25 or 30 years. The government speaking after I had finished, said that I had made him ashamed of himself. "I should be taking such action," he said, "and the people should be looking me up. A prominent physician, who had spent several years in a famous London hospital, then testified that such a practice would be a Godsend in Osaka. For blindness is one of the curses of Japan. The governor said he had decided to call a meeting of doctors the next day to discuss the matter. He had heard that the meeting had reported that the conclusions therefrom were that the cause of blindness was the use of opium. "Why," I asked them, "would it not be a fine thing for the 45 governments of Japan to receive a report of this?" "Perhaps they will," was the significant reply. I have reason to believe that they did. In Japan, the cause of blindness is the use of opium. The cause of blindness is the use of opium. The cause of blindness is the use of opium.

The northern and southern sections have been working for years. The soldiers are always owed back pay, and they cannot be demobilized while the government owes them this money. While foreign loans to pay off the military are being negotiated, new debts accrue in the way of pay, and conditions are as bad as they were prior to the loan. Something will have to be done some time to stop this war. The national government is ineffective. The country is overrun with bandits, and the soldiers are in constant contact with these robbers. Most of the governors are what we would designate grafters. Business men who raise their heads in properly are taxed and bled until they are ruined. There are, however, a few wise governors, who are noted for justice, and the fame of their names has spread throughout the country.

A Benevolent People
The Chinese are a benevolent people. Benevolence, indeed, is one of the primary maxims in the creed of Confucius. Business men give liberally to all charitable causes. I have seldom met more ingenious and open-hearted people. They are curious, eager-minded, and most grateful to the Americans for having used the Boxer indemnity for the education in America of Chinese, young men and women. In China the scholar ranks high, even higher than the soldier. The four leading Chinese diplomats are products of St. John's college, an American Christian school. Yet women are not treated well in China. A Chinaman's greatest blemish is to "lose face," and this would happen, his reputation would be ruined, if he was seen on the street with his wife. The students who come to this country should be allowed to board in American homes, and leave of our wholesome home life. They are eager to do this, but Chinese students are often told they are not wanted when they apply for lodgings.

In India social conditions are bad, due to early marriages, for one thing. Cases for having been married to boys of fourteen or fifteen years of age, this has been the prevailing custom. The result of immature parents is the child, often out of four die. The caste system is another dire evil. The speaker closed by stating that American influence in the Orient, with American colleges there, will do more to produce real internationalism than anything else.

ADVERSE REPORT ON VACCINATION BILL
(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, March 23.—An adverse report was filed yesterday by the committee on public health on the bill, introduced on petition of Dr. Alfred Worcester and others, to require the vaccination of pupils attending private schools.

That an attempt may be made to overturn the report of the committee is indicated by the fact that four members—Reps. Ryder of Middleborough, Kerr of Lawrence, Bartlett of Brockton and Kelleher of Cambridge have dissented from the report. There are no dissenters among the senate members of the committee, and since the report has been filed in the senate it is likely to be accepted there and such the prestige of acceptance in the senate it may get by the house without a contest.

Yesterday the senate, with very little debate, accepted the adverse committee reports on both of the so-called material bills. This probably means the end, for a time at least, of this sort of legislation.

Adverse reports were filed yesterday on two bills providing that in letting contracts for public works only citizens of the United States shall be eligible for consideration, and that in employment of public works preference shall be given to citizens.

No debate accepted without debate adverse reports on several bills to investigate banking institutions to invest a large proportion of their funds in real estate mortgages. The upper branch also accepted a report of reference to the next general court on the recommendation of a special commission that a new building, or an additional wing on the state house, be erected for the use of the supreme court, the state library, and the state department of education.

DETROIT, March 23.—Production of automobiles in the Detroit area has reached approximately 5000 cars a day, according to a survey of the leading factories. Nearly all the larger factories are adding to their forces daily. The Ford Motor Co., this week resumed a six-day schedule and the Dodge Co., announced it had reached one-third normal production.

"A. JOHNSON, TAILOR"

Workshop of Tailor-President To Be Preserved By State of Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 23.—A dilapidated little building at Greenville, in Eastern Tennessee, upon the front of which once hung the sign: "A. Johnson, Tailor," and which was the place where Andrew Johnson, the man who succeeded Lincoln as president of the United States, began his business career, probably will be bought and preserved by the state of Tennessee.

A bill now pending in the Tennessee legislature providing for the purchase of the building and its maintenance as a state relic. Its picture has adorned Tennessee histories for years but the commonwealth has been slow to take steps to preserve the building.

The little tailor shop stands at the corner of East Depot and College streets in the sleepy little town where Johnson who was born in Raleigh, N. C., emigrated at the age of 18. Having served his apprenticeship to a tailor, Johnson opened his first shop in Greenville. After a year he was married to Miss Eliza McDardell to whose lot it fell to teach her young husband to write and undertake other educational preliminaries as Johnson knew only his letters when he became head of his own house, having never attended school a day in his life.

Johnson's political career began as alderman of Greenville. He then served as mayor, was elected to the lower house of the legislature, then state senator, afterward to congress, became governor of Tennessee, serving two terms. United States senator, military governor of Tennessee, was elected as vice president of the United States and became president upon the death of Lincoln. His final political office was that as United States senator from Tennessee.

Johnson, while governor of Tennessee, once resumed his tailoring implements. He had formed a strong friendship in the Tennessee legislature for W. W. Pepper, of Springfield, a staunch Whig and once a blacksmith. Despite their irreconcilable political creeds the personal relations of Johnson and Pepper were extremely cordial. Pepper became judge of the seventh judicial district in 1861 and after a visit to Johnson, then governor, set about making a present to his friend, fashioning a shawl which he sent with a note explaining it was intended as a memento of a friendship that was proof against all political differences.

Johnson, to show his appreciation of the token, took up his scissors and needle and made a handsome beaver cloth coat which he pressed and sent to Pepper. It was a splendid piece of workmanship, probably the last of that kind of work Johnson ever did.

We Invite You To see how really clean teeth shine

Your teeth are coated with a film. When fresh the film is viscous—you can feel it with your tongue. Later it forms a cloudy coat. It enters crevices and stays. It dims the teeth, and now we know that it causes most tooth troubles.

There is now a way to end it. This week your druggist, if you ask, will give you a 10-Day Tube. Get it and see what it does for your teeth. Learn what film removal means.

These methods have been combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. Millions of people have come to employ it. You can see the results wherever you look—in glistening teeth, in teeth you envy, maybe.

A new dental era has begun, due to these discoveries. And these are benefits everyone should share. So you are urged to let this 10-Day Tube show what Pepsodent can do.

Brings five effects

Pepsodent brings five distinct effects. All are apparent, some are quick. A few days' use will leave no doubt about them. And a little book will tell you what each one means to you.

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva to digest starch deposits that cling.

The alkalinity of the saliva is multiplied at once. This is to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

Every application brings the Pepsodent effects. Together they mean tooth protection like you never had before.

Old ways don't end it

Old ways of brushing do not end film. Millions of people know that. Teeth discolor and decay despite the daily care.

The reason lies in film. It clings and hides, and very few escape its damage.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. All these troubles have been constantly increasing—some have grown alarming. And all because we knew no way to daily fight the film.

A new dental era

Dental science has for years studied to combat film. Ways have now been found to do it. Able authorities have proved those methods by many careful tests. Now leading dentists everywhere are urging their daily use.

Men who smoke

will see a quick, conspicuous change

Tobacco stains the film-coat on the teeth. So men who smoke will see a great change quickly. But millions of teeth have that same film-coat with a lesser stain.

Children's teeth are most affected by the film. Young teeth seem most subject to decay. Dentists advise that Pepsodent be daily applied from the time the first tooth appears. Otherwise, decay is almost certain.

Pepsodent brings to women whiter, prettier teeth. But that means cleaner teeth and safer. The luster comes from constant film removal and the high polish given to the teeth.

What Is the Secret of This Medicine's Wonderful Power?

Hundreds of Men and Women Say They Are Amazed at Its Wonderful Effects on Disorders of the Stomach, Kidneys, Liver, Bowels and Blood. How Does It Wipe Out Disease?

"It Burned Like Fire," Says Edw. Goldsmith. "For Years I've Had a Bad Case of Kidney and Bladder Trouble," Says James Albans. Hundreds of Others Who Tossed About On Beds of Pain Are Now Well.

MARVELOUS BANISHMENT OF PAIN AND DISEASE

If you have suffered agonies from rheumatism and neuralgia during the past months, if dyspepsia has gnawed at your vitals and tortured you from day to day; if kidney and liver troubles threaten to end your life, if poisoned and impure blood has shown its effect in boils, pimples and skin eruptions; if sleeplessness and nervousness have made you miserable and despondent; if headache, dizziness and backaches give warning of approaching disorders; constipation, rheumatism or stomach disorders have you in their grasp. If you have tried everything under the sun to get relief and have failed, don't you think it is time you gave Cinol a chance to lift you out of the slough of misery and set you again on the path of perfect health and the full enjoyment of life, which is every man's and woman's God-given right?

Cinol seems to be the most talked-of medicine today. Almost everywhere you go—in homes, offices, shops, factories, clubs and meeting places of all kinds—you are almost sure to hear someone tell of the wonderful results secured by this "Miracle Medicine," as it has been called. Scores who doubted the powers of this marvelous reconstructant and invigorant have been prevailed upon to give it a trial and are now singing its praises.

Here are just a few signed statements, selected at random, from the many which are being received daily from men and women everywhere. Read them carefully and see how true they ring.

Sour Gas Relieved Up Into His Throat After Every Meal

Here comes the story of how a new medicine, just introduced has benefited a man, his wife and twelve-year-old son. It will make interesting reading for men and women afflicted with stomach trouble, no matter how slight or serious it may seem. The story is told by Mr. Edw. Goldsmith, the well-known cigar man. He says:

"I had a terrible case of stomach disorder and catarrh. I could not even eat the simplest food because it would sour in my stomach and I would belch it up to my throat and it burned like fire. I also had a bad case of catarrh, which increased my troubles. I saw in the papers how much good the new Cinol medicine was doing for other people who suffered from the same troubles as I had and I decided to begin taking it also. I want to say publicly that Cinol is the only thing that ever brought me relief. It eased my stomach pains, and it was not long before I could eat almost anything without being sorry afterwards. I did not know it would help my catarrh, but I am glad to say that I am entirely well.

"My wife was all run down and my twelve-year-old son was puny. Both of them have also taken Cinol and they are like new people. I am tickled to pieces that I have found health, for myself and family at last, and the health of it is, the price puts it within the reach of every one. I gained five pounds while taking Cinol."

Such praise, as this, told in the straightforward, plain language of a clear man, cannot but convince even the most skeptical that here is a medicine for which the world has long been waiting.

Cinol is made entirely of natural herbs. It contains no mineral chemicals or anything to hurt the system.

Read This Remarkable Story

The hundreds of friends of James Albans were recently surprised to see him appear without his cane. Judge then of the great astonishment of his many acquaintances to see him come out looking the very picture of health and walking as nimbly as any of them.

Mr. Albans gratefully gives all the credit for his deliverance to Cinol, and for the benefit of those who think some miracle has been worked, he makes the following signed statement telling of his experience with this wonderful new medicine.

"For years I've had a bad case of kidney and bladder trouble. It was so bad that I had to walk with a cane. My urine was frequent and scanty and always painful, but Cinol has removed the pain entirely and regulated the urine to normal. I am feeling fine and I highly recommend Cinol to all."

I HAVE THROWN AWAY MY WALKING CANE.

No, it was not a miracle. Just an honest science steps in to save all human beings after all hope has been abandoned.

Cinol is credited with hundreds of cases similar to the above. Cases where everything else has failed and the new medical discovery was tried as a last resort.

Cinol is not a cure-all; it is not a miracle worker, but there are very often cases of organic disorders that will not yield to a rational scientific treatment. That's why so many are telling wonderful stories of the good this medicine is accomplishing. Try a bottle of Cinol and see. For it today.

I Was So Badly Battered I Had to Let Out My Hat

Mark Dedson, of Springfield, Me., has come forward with an interesting statement which he makes for the benefit of other men and women who may be suffering the way he has. He has a case of dyspepsia, nervousness, dizziness, constipation, headache, and other troubles not men in their grasp for some time. "I was often so badly battered by these troubles," he says in his signed statement, "that I had to let out my hat. He took two bottles of Cinol, the wonderful new medicinal discovery that so many people in this section are praising so highly, and now he says his troubles are gone. He is so enthusiastic over his relief that he is also sending his mother a bottle of Cinol. 'Because it helped me so much,' he says."

Any person with a sound, healthy stomach can successfully combat the various troubles of the system that assail humanity and that is why Cinol is fast being recognized as one of the greatest scientific discoveries of modern times.

Any one of the following symptoms may indicate the condition of a diseased stomach and the Cinol may lead to more serious bodily troubles. Headache, backache, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, indigestion, dyspepsia, shortness of breath, palpitation, itching gas, fermentation of food, foul breath, lack of energy, dizziness or that run-down, tired feeling.

In such cases immediate steps should be taken, for the disorder may not remain harmless and become more chronic as reported by the Cinol medicine for disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, no matter how long standing.

Cinol is being introduced in Lowell by an expert at Dows Drug Store, discussing the situation specifically yesterday, and the most definite indication of the administration attitude on the question remained in the statement of Secretary of Commerce Hoover Monday denouncing resumption of trade with Russia as essentially a political instead of an economic question and advancing the belief that any considerable trade with Russia at this time was physically impossible.

The possibility of resuming trade relations with the soviet government was not the subject of public comment in White House circles yesterday and at the state department any outward signs of a possible change in policy toward the Russian government were lacking, although one responsible official intimated that the recent signing of the Great Britain-soviet trade agreement and the conclusion of formal peace between Poland and soviet Russia necessarily were developments which should be taken into consideration in considering the Russian situation in the future.

Officials profess to know nothing of the possibility of a delegation coming here from the soviet government to negotiate a trade agreement.

Member of Denman Thompson's Old Homestead Company Dies in Nashua

NASHUA, N. H., March 23.—Mrs. Marie (Kays) Kimball, who was for many years soprano soloist in the Old South and King's Chapel choirs, Boston, and for 10 years a member of Denman Thompson's Old Homestead company, died Monday night at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank M. Kays, 16 Chestnut street.

She toured the country for many years as concert singer and a generation ago was one of the leading concert sopranos. Since her retirement from the stage she had been a teacher of voice culture here, making her home with her sister-in-law.

She was a native of Lowell, but came to Nashua in her youth and since then retained her home here. Her husband, Orrin Kimball, died many years ago. She was the last of her immediate family.

ASKS U. S. TO RESUME TRADE WITH RUSSIA

LONDON, March 23 (by the Associated Press).—The Russian soviet government has appealed to President Harding and the American government to resume trade relations with Russia, says a wireless message from Moscow yesterday.

The soviet government proposes to send a delegation to the United States to negotiate a trade agreement, the message adds.

The appeal, which is made by the all-Russian central executive committee, suggests that negotiations be started immediately for the resumption of trade. It asserts that there has been a long existing hope for friendly relations with "the great northern republic" refers to "the hostility of the democratic administration," trusts that the present government will support the great advances which would come to both republics by the intercourse of both nations to remove the wall which now separates the two countries.

When many other states have concluded treaties with Russia, the absence of normal relations with the United States, the appeal says, appears as a "strange phenomenon."

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Official confirmation was lacking here last night of information contained in Moscow wireless advices received in London announcing that the Russian soviet government had appealed to President Harding to resume trade relations with Russia.

Responsible officials refrained from discussing the situation specifically yesterday, and the most definite indication of the administration attitude on the question remained in the statement of Secretary of Commerce Hoover Monday denouncing resumption of trade with Russia as essentially a political instead of an economic question and advancing the belief that any considerable trade with Russia at this time was physically impossible.

Four Germans Who Aided Them in Attempt to Kidnap Bergdoll Jailed

MOSBACH, Baden, March 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, deserter from the American army, took the stand yesterday in the trial of four Germans who aided him in an attempt to kidnap Bergdoll at Eberbach last January. Bergdoll testified that Zimmer leaped against the automobile and pointed a revolver at him. Neuf, he further testified, aimed his revolver at him and fired, the first bullet hitting a young woman, Lina, and the second entering one of the tires.

Zimmer denied having drawn a weapon, he said if he had he would have fired. Neuf made a long statement detailing the nature of his activities as a detective for the American military forces at Coblenz. He asserted that he had succeeded with the aid of the German authorities in apprehending numerous American deserters. In various sections of Germany, he had been on Bergdoll's trail for a long time and he said he had sought a German police visa for his American passport to avoid complications at Eberbach. He had sought to kidnap the American deserter in order to forestall escape to Switzerland, as Neuf believed that the German police at Eberbach were disinclined to assist him despite the fact that the police authorities at Coblenz had given him credentials which he understood entitled him to operate in unoccupied parts of Germany.

Two police officials from Coblenz testified that the German authorities were frequently called on to co-operate with the American military authorities and that Neuf had often made trips into unoccupied sections of Germany with their knowledge and consent to seize American fugitives from justice. The German police officials who worked with Neuf spoke favorably of him.

PREFERS DEATH TO WIDOWHOOD

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 22.—Within 12 hours after her husband dropped dead, Mrs. Anne Marie Owens, formerly of Pittsburgh, committed suicide by gas asphyxiation at her home in Ventnor. The couple, who were married only six months ago, had taken possession of the shore cottage last Friday.

Dr. Samuel C. Owens, 48, expired after he had asked a "check at a local bank shortly after 1 o'clock Monday afternoon. Mrs. Owens was summoned to the institution and became hysterical when told of her husband's tragic death.

THE LOWELL SUN WEDNESDAY MARCH 23 1921

dentise. She apparently recovered from the shock and returned to her Frankford avenue cottage, where she was alone in the house with two maid-servants.

Gas odors were detected shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday morning and an investigation resulted in the discovery of her lifeless body. Every indication pointed to suicide. The woman was dead when the doctor arrived. County Physician Louis R. Souder made an investigation into the circumstances surrounding Mrs. Owens' death and later issued a certificate setting forth suicide.

Mrs. Owens retired about midnight, going to the room usually occupied by her husband. About 1 o'clock strange odors of gas aroused the maids who, not finding Mrs. Owens in the doctor's room, went in search of her. They found her in the kitchen seated before the gas range. Every burner had been turned on and the room was so filled with gas that the girls were nearly overcome. The bereaved woman had taken her husband's clothing, including all the minor details of dress, with her and held them in her lap.

Legitimacy of Baby Stillman Attacked and Defended in Supreme Court

CHARGE AGAINST MRS. STILLMAN

Counsel for New York Bank President Accuses Woman of Infidelity

Alleges She is Mother of Child By An Indian Guide—Decision Reserved

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 23.—A definite charge that Mrs. Anna U. Stillman, wife of James A. Stillman, president of the National City bank of New York, was the mother of a child by an Indian guide, was made in supreme court here today by counsel for Mr. Stillman, during preliminary arguments in the divorce suit the bank president has brought.

Addressing Justice Morselsmauer, who presided at the hearing on alimony and counsel fees, Delaney Nicoll, chief counsel for Mr. Stillman, said: "Evidence already before you shows that Mrs. Stillman took as her lover an Indian guide by whom she had an infant son, whom Mr. Stillman must either acknowledge as a member of his family or repudiate as illegitimate."

Court Room Crowded.—This criminal intimacy began in 1916 and continued through 1919. Mr. Stillman feels it his duty to his father's memory, to his family and to his children to press this matter to a conclusion.

"Had it been possible to do this otherwise than in court proceedings, we would have done it. But there was no other way than to make the mother and child co-defendants in a suit."

Mr. Nicoll said he could not understand the feelings of a father "whose wife yielded to the embraces of an Indian guide" but that he could understand why he would hesitate to take court action under such circumstances.

The hearing lasted only about half an hour. Justice Morselsmauer reserved decisions on motions of alimony of $10,000 a month and counsel fees of $245,000 for Mrs. Stillman.

Reporters' Sit On Floor.—When court opened today so many spectators crowded into the room that deputy sheriffs had to be stationed at the doors to prevent entrance of any more. Not only were all the seats filled, but many persons stood on the windowsills and on the floor.

Justice Morselsmauer called several minor cases but requested that they be deferred. Then he turned to attorneys for Stillman vs. Stillman, who in reply to a question as to whether they were ready, nodded.

"We shall be long," said Mr. Nicoll. "We will be very short," said John F. Brennan, one of Mrs. Stillman's attorneys.

Stillman's Income $336,000.—The lawyers then plunged into the question of Mr. Stillman's income. It was finally admitted by one of his attorneys to have been $336,000 in 1920. Counsel for the defendant had claimed it amounted to $500,000 or $1,000,000.

Mr. Brennan admitted that the figure of $336,000 was correct for the period of one year, and said that now that he had been supplied with this information, he had no further occasion for pressing for an examination of the plaintiff.

"We have tendered a stipulation," said Mr. Nicoll. "To the effect that the plaintiff is able to pay any reasonable sum to the defendant and your honor might allow this amount as stated in the stipulation."

The stipulation admits that the plaintiff, Mr. Stillman, had a net income for the past year of $336,000. There were from his gross income several deductions, including a federal tax which left the amount about $330,000.

In making his charges against Mrs. Stillman, the former "FBI" Potter-McNicol said that his client had "refused to credit for a long time, any thought which might have occurred after she may have implicated herself."

Early Consideration of Relations Between U. S. and Soviet Russia

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Early consideration is to be given to relations between the United States and Soviet Russia, it was indicated today at the state department. Formal announcement of any change in the relations between the two countries or in any of the rulings by the Wilson administration may not be made for some time, but it was made clear that already certain modifications of those rulings either are under consideration or have been made.

These decisions were reached independently of the appeal from the Soviet government to President Harding and the American government for a reconsideration of the United States and Russia. That appeal reached the state department today from the White House.

BLOODHOUNDS TRAIL BANDITS

Three Masked Men Robbed Every Passenger in Three Sleeping Cars

Took $3000 in Cash and Escaped in a Waiting Automobile

MUSKOGEE, Okla., March 23.—Bloodhounds today were on the trail of two masked bandits who boarded the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad's "Texas Special" at Denison, Tex., last night, robbed every passenger in three sleeping cars and escaped at McAlester, in a waiting automobile. The loot was estimated at more than $3000 in cash.

As the train pulled out of Denison, the robbers began their work. One bandit carrying two pistols lined the passengers of the first car in the aisle while his companion searched the travelers, taking only cash.

The robber then ordered the door locked and proceeded to the second car and then to the last car. With them went the porter and the brakeman. After they had finished their work the bandits ordered the brakeman to signal the engineer to stop and the train halted at the edge of McAlester.

Passengers say they observed an automobile draw up to the train. The bandits leaped into the car and sped away.

In the meantime the conductor, who had been at the front of the train, learned of the holdup. He managed to attract the attention of the stationmaster at Kiowa, to whom he hung a note.

Word was flashed to McAlester where a posse was formed and awaited the train.

FAVOR PACKING PLANT

Petition Signed by 908 Residents Filed at City Hall Today

Early this afternoon a petition favoring the establishment of a packing plant on the site of the former Harvard Brewing Co.'s plant in Payton street was filed at city hall bearing 908 signatures of residents of all parts of the city.

The filing of this petition was an eleventh-hour development in the packing plant discussion although it was known that such a petition had been in circulation for several weeks. It was turned over to Mayor Thompson and will be considered at tonight's hearing to be held by the municipal council.

Nearly a score of petitions opposing the project have been filed with the council and today's petition is the third in favor of it. It is by far the largest petition, either for or against, that has been received.

There had been some doubt today in the minds of many of those who plan to attend tonight's hearing whether the affair was to be held in city hall or in Memorial hall. The question was unsettled even in the minds of city hall authorities until early this afternoon when it was finally decided to start the hearing in the aldermanic chamber in city hall and if it is found that the crowd is too large to be taken care of there, the council will adjourn to Memorial hall. The hearing is scheduled to start promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

TAKEN TO CAMBRIDGE

Martha Lucy was arrested by Officer James McNally on a capias warrant yesterday, and today he was taken to the superior court at Cambridge.

Mr. Brennan said that in the last 12 months Mr. Stillman had contributed more than $25,000 for the maintenance of his wife. He said, in referring to counsel fees, that Justice Morselsmauer, with his experience, could do the proper thing.

After of Alimony

Mr. Nicoll said the only desire of Mr. Stillman in the matter of alimony was that he could grant Mrs. Stillman sufficient money to allow her to live in reasonable luxury.

Attorneys for the plaintiff brought out that the largest previous request for alimony in a court in New York state was in the famous Gould case, when the sum asked was identical with the present request.

JAPANESE ARE VERY CORDIAL

Social Worker Talks On "Our Neighbors Around the World"

Believes Japan Will Have National Prohibition Within the Next Ten Years

Philippines Want Independence With American Army and Navy Protection

"Do not be surprised if you find national prohibition in Japan within the next ten years," said Robert Woods, pioneer American social worker, last evening at high school hall, in an address on "Our Neighbors Around the World." The affair was under the auspices of the Monday club.

Mr. Woods stated his conviction that the east is west, telling his hearers that in the Orient receptive people are discovered, eager for new social conceptions. Many of the Chinese are adept at speaking the English language, while in Japan the learning of that tongue is compulsory.

In India the speaking of English is an inevitable mark of education. Everywhere there are newspapers printed in English.

"The first leg of our journey," said Mr. Woods, "found us still on United States soil."

FIRE IN FIRST STREET

An overheated stove and a defective chimney were responsible for a blaze which caused damages to the extent of about $200 in a building owned by Arthur Grimes and located at 45 First street, shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon. The fire occurred in the tenement occupied by Eugene Bonin and family on the second floor. It started near the chimney and quickly spread to the roof. An alarm from box 6 was sounded and considerable ripping had to be done by the firemen before the last spark was put out.

14 Civilians Killed In Two New Attacks In Ireland

CORK, March 23.—Six civilians were killed in the Blarney district, County Cork, today in a battle which ensued when crown forces were fired upon from a farmhouse. The military were conducting a search for wanted men when they were attacked.

DUBLIN, March 23.—A police inspector and eight men were ambushed near Dingle, yesterday, but the fight which ensued, lasting three hours, ended disastrously for the attacking party, eight of whom were killed and 20 wounded, according to an official announcement here today. Three of the police were slightly wounded. It was added.

CARD. GIBBONS IS NEAR DEATH

All Hope for Recovery of Aged Prelate Abandoned By Members of Household

Suffered Relapse Last Sunday—Conscious Only Part of the Time

BALTIMORE, March 23.—Cardinal Gibbons, who suffered a relapse last Sunday, was reported to be in a critical condition today. He is conscious only part of the time and virtually all hope for his recovery has been abandoned by members of his household who had clung to the belief that the prelate's naturally vigorous constitution would pull him through the present attack as it had those of the past.

The cardinal passed a restless night and was weaker this morning. His condition at mid-day was said to be unchanged, a little weaker if anything.

Ever since he was taken ill, the cardinal's condition has shown marked reactions to extremely weak conditions. During the cold spell some weeks ago, he suffered a relapse. It was learned today, but recovered from it in a few days and was able to resume his automobile rides.

He took the last of these rides on Sunday. When he returned it was seen that the heat was exerting a weakening effect upon him. He was at once put to bed and everything possible was done to stimulate his heart action. He has since had several of the sinking spells that are dreaded.

Since his return in January to the archiepiscopal residence from the home of friends at Union Mills, Md., where he became seriously ill, last December, the cardinal's condition apparently had continued to improve, until Sunday. He was able to take automobile rides almost daily and to walk about his home.

When a change for the worst occurred last Sunday night, announcement was withheld in the hope that the bad turn would prove to be only temporary.

In December Cardinal Gibbons suffered a general breakdown due to his long illness, devotion to his diocesan duties in spite of his 84 years, and the fact that the strain was beginning to tell on him was given as early as Nov. 7 when he was seized with a momentary faintness while delivering a sermon at Havre de Grace.

FEW USE CITY LIBRARY

Circulation Small and Cost of Handling Books High, Says Report

Figures were made public at the chamber of commerce rooms today that shed an interesting light on the library inclinations of the people of Lowell and on the relations of the city library thereto. According to these figures this city has only a small class of people who are interested in the latest "best sellers" of fiction, and the other times that deal with erudite subjects or else they obtain their mental nutriment from other sources than that provided by the municipality.

The figures given out by the chamber of commerce are from seven cities and are gleaned from the latest reports available which are for the year 1919. The cities from which statistics were gathered are as follows: Springfield, New Bedford, Worcester, Cambridge, Lynn, Fall River and Lowell.

In the year mentioned the Lowell library circulated a total of only 150,000 volumes as compared with 452,535 that were read by the patrons of the library in New Bedford, a city not differing from Lowell.

There are more than 17,000 high schools in the United States attended by 1,735,812 pupils.

LAMP SETS FIRE TO ROOM

Believed That Boy Tipped Over Lamp on Way to Mother's Bed

Fire is Confined to Bedroom in Which the Tragedy Occurred

A woman and two of her children were burned to death and the contents of a bedroom were destroyed, while the building was damaged to some extent in a fire which occurred at 185 Moody street this morning. The dead are Mrs. Jose Mendes Silva, 34; Frank, aged 3 years, and Constanca, aged 6 months.

It is believed the fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp tipped over by the boy in attempting to reach his mother's bed from his own cot in the same room, while the mother and the baby were asleep. When the fire occurred the husband and father was at his work in the Merrimack mills, while an 8-year-old son, Joseph, was in school.

The fire occurred in a dark room on the second floor of the building, which has two windows, one leading to the kitchen and the other to the front room and none to the outside of the building. The fire was discovered shortly after 9 o'clock by neighbors who detected smoke in the hall. An alarm was sounded from box 12, but when the firemen reached the premises they found it difficult to enter the rooms occupied by the Silva family because of the dense smoke. Windows in other parts of the house were thrown open and a line of chemical was laid. When the firemen finally entered the room they found most of the contents destroyed, while the bed which was occupied by Mrs. Silva and her baby was ablaze. The fire was extinguished and the two bodies were taken out. Later the body of the boy was found in another part of the room, and all three were removed in the ambulance to the funeral parlors of Undertakers C. L. Molloy's Sons in Market street.

As far as could be learned Mrs. Silva got up early this morning and prepared breakfast for her husband and son, Joseph, and then went back to get another hour or two of sleep, leaving a lighted lamp near the bed. Frank was then sleeping in his own cot in the same room. It is believed that the boy in attempting to reach his mother's bed tipped over the lamp and the three were quickly overcome by the smoke. As soon as the fire was discovered the father was called out of his work and when he was informed of the death of his wife and two children, he was overcome with grief.

The building is an old type two-and-a-half story wooden structure, located near the corner of Tilden street and is owned by the heirs of A. C. Wheelock. The walls and the ceiling of the rooms where the fire occurred, were badly burned, while the windows in the other parts of the flat were smashed. The fire, however, was confined to the bedroom.

EXPLOSION KILLS FIVE

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 23.—Five men are dead and three others are missing, believed to be buried under many feet of molten metal and whitehot bricks, as the result of a blast furnace "slip" at the Steelton plant of the Bethlehem Steel Co., today.

The explosion blew a hole in the side of the furnace, letting out the molten metal.

TO SETTLE PACKERS' DISPUTE

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Spokesmen for the packers' employers conferred with Secretary Davis for more than an hour today, and then went into private conference to consider proposals made as the basis for a settlement of the dispute between the big five packers and their workmen.

The principals to the negotiations still maintained silence.

The proposal has been made to change the obsolete forts of Paris into public baths.

LESS SATISFIED

Contributor to Sun Symposium Says Discontent Will Bring Better Days

Also Calls for Wider Education in Problems of Municipal Government

The Sun publishes another contribution today to its symposium on "What Lowell needs most at the present time." The name of the contributor is withheld by request. He has not been in Lowell as long as some of the rest of us, and has observed things from a slightly different point of view than those of us who have lived here many years. The contribution follows: "Let me say first, in attempting to answer your question, that if my criticism of Lowell shall at any time seem a bit sharp, it is nevertheless inspired by the friendliest spirit. The fellows who come up to us and clap us on the back and tell us that we are fine chaps are not always as truly friends as those who sometimes have the courage to take us down a bit by reminding us that we are not quite so nearly perfect as we thought we were.

"An interesting story is told of Lord Northcliffe of England, owner of the London Times, the London Daily Mail, and a host of other publications. The Mail has been considered in times past the world's greatest newspaper.

He Was Satisfied

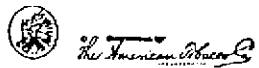

"One day Lord Northcliffe met an employe of the Mail passing along a corridor. 'How do you like your position on the paper?' his lordship asked. 'Fine; I am perfectly satisfied,' was the answer. 'Perfectly satisfied, eh?' was the response. 'You can consider your connection with the Mail ended at the close of two weeks; we want no men who are satisfied on this paper.'

"Lowell, it seems to me has gotten well satisfied with herself on the whole. There is some spluttering and grumbling occasionally about this or that member of the family, or some objection to some feature of the residence that may result in a patch being put on somewhere or a piece of new furniture purchased.

"On the whole, though, we are pretty well satisfied with the old town as it is, and the best evidence of this is that if we didn't like it we should get up and go to the work of fixing it up as we think it ought to be pretty quick.

Ancestry Worship

"We have something of the spirit of ancestry worship here. We look around us and we think that our fathers and perhaps grandfathers got along very well with things as they are; why should anyone wish to change them?

"There is more than one kind of dissatisfaction. There is the grumbling, sour dissatisfaction to which nothing is good, and to which fault-finding is a normal accomplishment. That of course is not the kind of dissatisfaction that I mean. If we have family skeletons let us keep our mouths shut about them. Let us boast Lowell and boast about Lowell every hour in every day in the week. Let us be resolved, though, that we shall do our part to make it a town really worth boasting about.

"There is a kind of dissatisfaction that has been described as a divine discontent. When we get to feeling that dissatisfaction deep enough and completely enough, things will be done in this old city that ought to be done, and I doubt if they are before.

One Other Need

"There is one more thing that I believe Lowell needs. The test of modern democracy is coming in the cities of America. Lowell's problems in this respect are not greatly different from those in other places. But we all recognize that they must be solved. One of the great solvents for untoward conditions is education. There has been education. A stream can rise no higher than its source. It is the plain, ordinary everyday men and women, that are in the streets and in the homes, that make the city government, and it may be stated as an axiom of truth that they want good, efficient, honest, honorable government.

"But how many of the voters who select our officials of government have the slightest real knowledge of municipal affairs or of the fundamental principles of municipal government? Very few. They vote for this candidate or that candidate because he happens to belong to the same club, church, or social circle. Or it may be that the voter is influenced by some wild, improbable statement or promise that a candidate has made.

Extending Through School

"My wish would be that Lowell might have a course of instruction in municipal government beginning in the eighth grade and extending through the high school. I do not mean the conventional course in civil government, but a study of up-to-date works on the applied science of governing cities. I would have public school classes attend sessions of the municipal council that they may have actual knowledge of the way in which the business of the city is transacted. I would have sections of classes visit the different city departments and use them for laboratory demonstrations of the actual way in which the work of carrying on the work of the city is done.

"With an electorate so education, I do not believe that we should need to have fear for the future of Lowell."

BATTLE FOR ESTATE

Widow is Fighting Ward of Syracuse Man

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 23.—Discovery that Thomas Ryan, three times mayor of Syracuse and wealthy president of the Thomas Ryan Consumers' Buying company, left a third will is the latest development in a long legal fight being waged by Mrs. Jennie Ryan, the widow, against Mrs. Florence May Ryan Myron, the ward of Ryan.

Ryan, for years a power in upstate democratic politics, left an estate of approximately $200,000.

The third will, to be offered shortly for probate is in possession of Attorney John Walrath, former district attorney.

It is said to have been made Feb. 15 of this year.

Although its provisions have not been announced, they are said to be practically the same as those of a will drafted in October, 1920, making Mrs. Myron chief beneficiary.

Earlier Document

The Ryan will of 1914 is the one that Ryan's relatives are asking to have probated.

The petition charges duress and undue influence in the making of the 1920 will.

While Mrs. Ryan is out off with a $10,000 annuity in all wills produced to date, nephews and grand-nephews of the Ryan also suffer in the 1920 will.

Strife between Ryan, Mrs. Ryan and Ryan's ward have occupied public attention during the last year.

Mrs. Ryan resisted vigorously Ryan's attempts to adopt legally Mrs. Myron. She even succeeded in having a law passed by the state legislature amending the adoption law to bar forever the adoption unless with her consent.

Ryan explained his desire to provide for the woman he considered his foster-daughter in the 1920 testament, which said:

Man Charged With Serious
Offence Against Young Woman Held in $1000

Fred Dufour, charged with feloniously assaulting Mrs. Bertha Thierian, 21, was ordered held for the higher court in bonds of $1000, today in the police court. Probable cause was found by Judge Knight. Charles F. Frye, held in $1500 bonds for abusing a female child, had his case continued to Saturday.

The case of James Hallis, charged with stabbing Mrs. Gaiarakos February 28, was continued to April 14, when it was stated that the woman is still at the Lowell corporation hospital suffering from knife wounds on the face and breast. Counsel said that she will probably not be discharged from the care of the doctors within three weeks.

Diamantis Poulos and Angelo Panakos, charged with drunkenness and also held as witnesses in the Hallis case had their cases continued to the same date. The case of William Brown, who is charged with illegal keeping of liquor, was continued to March 30. The case of John F. Casey, charged with peddling without a license was continued to tomorrow morning. Bonds were fixed at $500.

Other Offenders
Stef Koukalis paid $12 on charges of using registered motor vehicles unlawfully. Fred Danville paid $5 on charges of violating the automobile laws. He was held on three counts, the first and third of which were filed. It was charged that he had no license in his possession and also that he had no front or rear lights on the machine he was driving. Erik J. Fromm paid $50 on charges of having milk in his possession to which water had been added. The defendant is a resident of Billerica.

Abraham Feldman, arrested by Lieutenant Petrie on the charge of stealing a bicycle, has his case continued to March 28. It is charged that Feldman took a bicycle from the basement of the high school building, and later attempted to sell it in Shirley. He was taken into custody by local officers, and later Lieutenant Petrie was sent from headquarters to bring the defendant back to Lowell. John Kazanaka was declared defaulted on larceny charges.

Daniel P. Leary, arrested on a capias, appeared in court to explain why he failed to pay a fine imposed for improper conduct. Quite some time ago Leary was fined $50, and was granted five weeks' time in which to produce the money. This, however, was not forthcoming, and today he was ordered committed until the fine is paid.

Peter Desjardins, charged with attempted larceny in connection with his effort to pass a partly raised check at a local bank, was sent away as not mentally competent, today after he had been examined by physicians. Desjardins presented a check on which the figure 16 had been changed to 100 by the addition of a zero. The written ten, however, had not been tampered with. He was arrested by Sergeants Palmer and Cawley, after he had been detained by the bank teller to whom he offered the check and attempted to realize $100 on it.

AUTO TRUCK OWNERS FIGHT INCREASE

BOSTON, March 23.—The railroads of New England have definitely abandoned their short haul business to the motor truck and will never attempt to regain it, according to Chairman John N. Cole of the state department of public works, who appeared yesterday before the legislative committee on ways and means to press his bills for increases in motor truck fees.

The statement was made after a small army of motor truck owners and manufacturers had registered their opposition to the increases, which run as high as 80 per cent. The automobile men insisted that they already pay high fees, and that the cost of maintaining highways be met by taxation of the general public, which shares in the advantages of good roads.

Cole Gives Figures
Commissioner Cole told the committee that the proposed increases would give the state $2,040,140 additional revenue for highway improvements, which with city, town and county appropriations would total $30,263,311 in road benefits in the state during the coming year.

Taking the average truck as an example, he pointed out that the proposed fee of $150 a year represents less than 2 per cent of the cost of operation for the year, including the investment of $6000, the price of the truck. He compared this with the 15 per cent of operating costs, which the railroads of the state devote to maintenance of the way.

In 1915, he said, with only 102,433 cars registered in the state, the highway department expended an average of 13.96¢ a car, whereas last year with an increase in number of cars to 304,535, the money available for roads to each car averaged only $0.05, in spite of the tremendous increase in the cost of road construction.

Spoke in Opposition
William A. Tithodesau, general counsel for the Automobile Legal association, opposing the proposed increased fees, pointed out the fees which motorists paid in 1920, with federal aid, totaled $5,146,753. The cost of maintenance, construction, overhead and other expenses of the highway department totaled $5,185,070.88, he said, leaving a surplus of $231,653.

This demonstrated, he said, there was absolutely no occasion for the increase. Automobiles of the state, he stated, are taxed directly to the amount of $12,526,634. He estimated the total receipts of the state from registration fees and federal aid for 1921 would be $8,000,000, leaving about $2,000,000 for additional road building.

Others who opposed the bill included Senator James F. Cavanaugh, president of the Northway Motors Co. He said the bill was wrong in principle. It would be preposterous, he declared, to build new roads out of the proposed increased fees.

Norman Halliday of the Mack Motor Truck Co., representing 200 motor truck owners, asserted that the matter went to a referendum the people of the state would prefer to subsidize rather than tax motor trucks.

Fred S. Howard, president of the

Worcester Automobile association, and vice president of the Automobile club, said all the 500 members he represented opposed the increase.

Patrick J. Lane, of the Master Furniture Movers Association of Massachusetts, appeared in opposition for 1000 members, using 3000 trucks and employing about 5000. Michael J. Shannon, president of the association, also spoke in opposition.

Senator Martin J. Quinn of Swampscott said the committee should give the bill careful consideration. Rawson Rowe, president of the New England Road Builders association, representing 2000 truck owners, said his organization would pay the increased fees, if necessary. He agreed with Commissioner Cole that roads in the state needed to be improved, to some extent, but that they were not in bad shape.

Many other speakers opposed the bills.

LOWELL MAN MISSING WHEN CASE IS CALLED

LAWRENCE, March 23.—Michael Gardner of Lowell, charged with the larceny of diamonds valued at $1700 from Esther Barlow, proprietor of a jewelry shop at 10 Pemberton street, and also with the larceny of jewelry from Franz Schneider, proprietor of Schneider's jewelry store at 244 Essex street, appeared for trial, but shortly before his case was called, he suddenly disappeared and Judge Maloney, after adjourning him, ordered that a capias be issued for his arrest immediately.

Counsel for the defendant, who was in the court room when the case was called, was himself somewhat in a quandary as to his client's disappearance.

February, 1919, Gardner is alleged to have snatched a tray of diamonds at the Barlow jewelry store. He made good his escape at that time through an alleyway. Prior to the Barlow robbery he is alleged to have stolen diamonds at the Schneider jewelry store. Proprietors of both places have identified him as the man who committed the thefts.

The bail which he defaulted was $500 and this had been furnished by Jacob Popkan of Boston, who is believed to be a professional bondsman. The surety was in real estate.

IRISH RELIEF FUND
The following additional subscriptions to the local Irish relief fund were announced today by Treasurer Stephen Flynn: Thomas F. Morris, Dracut Centre, $100; Stationary Firemen's union, Local No. 14, $100; Dennis J. Murphy, $25; Edward Sullivan, $5; and Rose Sullivan, $5. Contributions to this fund may be made at the Lowell Trust Co. or at the Middlesex Safe Deposit & Trust Co.

JOINT ATTACK ON IRISH POLICY

LONDON, March 23.—Independent liberals and laborites were expected to make a joint attack upon the government's Irish policy at today's session of the house of commons. It was understood that they intended to press their arguments for a renewal of peace negotiations at the point where they were interrupted last December. They were also ready to insist that the government waive its demand that Sinn Feiners surrender their arms before the peace parleys were commenced.

Prime Minister Lloyd George was prepared to reply to addresses by E. H. Asquith and John Robert Clynes, both of whom were to speak during the day.

SEC. WEEKS WOULD PROMOTE LIGGETT

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Another effort probably will be made to obtain promotion to the rank of lieutenant general for Maj.-Gen. Hunter Liggett, who retired from active service Monday.

Secretary Weeks said yesterday that he was very favorably inclined toward rewarding Gen. Liggett for his distinguished war service, and that if there appeared to be "any chance" that congress would reconsider its previous action and assent to the promotion, another recommendation would be forwarded from the war department.

"Other nations have rewarded their high commanding officers far more liberally than it is proposed to reward Gen. Liggett," he said.

Gen. Liggett's nomination for promotion failed of confirmation in the last congress, which also refused to accord the same honors to Maj.-Gen. Bullard and March.

Few Use City Library

greatly from Lowell in population, industries or inhabitants. Springfield, a slightly larger city and with a somewhat different class of people, in the same time circulated 310,133 books. Fall River, which stands next to Lowell at the bottom of the list, had a total circulation of about 72,000 more books than this city.

This city stands at the tail end of the procession as regards the number of books circulated per capita. In 1919 each person in Lowell read, or received from the library at least, nearly one book and a half. The exact circulation figures are 1.45 books per capita. This compares with 4.21 in New Bedford, 3.13 in Springfield, 2.05 in Lynn and 1.58 in Fall River.

Information obtained from the city library today indicates that the literary tastes of the people of the city are not becoming more avid as time passes, or at least that they are not working in increasing numbers to the big repository of books owned by the municipality.

The total number of books circulated last year was 165,043, which based on the census returns for the year gives a per capita circulation of 1.45, of slightly less than in the preceding year in which the reports are based on a different population basis.

Although Lowell people are not book worms, judging from the library data, they apparently do not begrudge the cost of getting books into circulation. It cost New Bedford 11 cents for each book given out and taken back at the library. In Springfield the cost was 10 cents, and in Cambridge 11 cents. In Lowell for every book that was taken out of the library it cost the city an average of 9 cents.

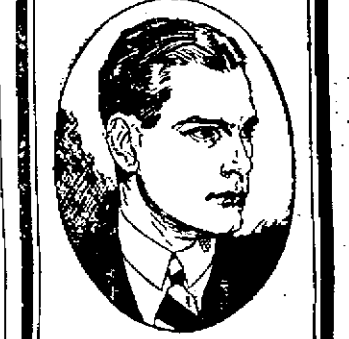

Although the cost of getting a book into circulation in Lowell was high, the total expenditure for library purposes was the lowest in the seven cities examined.

A curious fact in regard to the finances of the library developed today. When the municipal council made up the recently adopted budget, it was supposed by the city fathers and representatives of the board of trade that the total appropriation had been cut $517.06 under the expenditures of last year. As a matter of fact, though, it is stated, no cut at all was made. The library appropriation is the same as it was last year, or $24,000. The extra $517.05 that the city fathers thought they were saving to the city will come to the library out of the receipts from fines for detaining books, provided of course that there is no dilution of revenue.

DANCE HALL ABUSES

Dancing as conducted in some cities and in connection with some educational institutions, is being vigorously condemned because of the innovations recently introduced and the abuse of dances which are unobjectionable when properly executed.

Brown university has recently been the target for severe criticism on account of the latitude allowed to young people at the various socials held by the students. It was alleged that the dresses worn by the girls from Providence were scandalous because of their scant proportions and their being but knee high, while the actions of these girls on the ballroom floor were described as vulgarly suggestive.

In Phillips academy, Andover, no dances have been allowed for the past two years in the school or under school auspices, because of the difficulty of enforcing the proprieties.

In various high schools in Massachusetts cities the social functions have caused much gossip and even criticism, and in this Lowell has had her share, although Principal Harris and his assistants have endeavored to keep things as they should be, although the task carries a great responsibility. Thus far they have prevented scandals, from which some neighboring cities have suffered; but they never can tell how long this state of affairs will be maintained. Where social functions are conducted under school auspices, there is always danger of some violation of discipline that will reflect on the management or upon the school.

In general the police authorities of every city have a very grave responsibility in looking after the various cheap dances conducted in public halls. Parties who care little as to the character of their patrons, provided the box office shows a substantial profit. We are not aware that any strict supervision is exercised by our police women over the various dance halls; and yet the objectionable dances and vulgar methods are as able to appear in the cheap dance halls of Lowell as those of any other city.

Two policemen of the city of Worcester have recently made a survey of the dance halls of that city under the direction of Chief of Police Hill. As a result an effort has been made in that city to lay down rules to be observed at all balls and dances and the violation of which will result in ejection in ways more or less polite.

Here is one of their rules which should be enforced everywhere and which is usually observed by all who know how to dance and who wish to be polite:

The young man shouldn't place his right arm around the young lady's neck. Its proper place is just a trifle above the waist. She should have her left arm at his shoulder and not be hanging onto his neck for dear life.

Even this plain rule is violated in nearly every dance held outside the dancing academy. Here are "seven commandments" of the dance hall enforced by Worcester policemen:

Thou shalt not dance cheek to cheek.

Thou shalt not jazz in any of its diverse forms.

Thou shalt not tickle toe.

Thou shalt not attempt the Chicago Drag.

Thou shalt not try the Camel's Walk.

Thou shalt not pivot.

Thou shalt not shimmy.

N. B.—KEEP MOVING.

We do not know to what extent these rules are violated in Lowell dance halls; but we believe it is time for Supt. Welch to put an end to vulgar and suggestive dancing in Lowell and to see that none of those who attend dances are dispensing moonshine in the corridors or from automobiles in the vicinity. The police should also keep an eye on the young men who sport automobiles and who frequently hover around dance halls looking for girl passengers foolish enough to accept the offer of a free ride. The police have already had experience with cases of this kind.

A SCHOOL TAX

President Angell of Yale has called attention to the pressing need of a revision of the methods by which money is raised in many parts of the country to pay the costs of carrying on our school systems. The matter is one that was under consideration by the Lowell charter commission during its recent sessions, but it was decided that the subject was so complicated in its ramifications that sufficient time was not available to give it the study that was required.

Under our present system in Lowell, in theory, the school committee makes up a budget of the money that it needs which it presents to the municipal council early each year. The council is in the peculiar position that it must grant practically all the committee demands. The school committee has the law behind providing that the public schools shall be kept open a certain number of weeks in the year, the usual school term and it is also backed by public sentiment in keeping the schools up to a high standard, almost regardless of the cost.

We, therefore, have the unique position of the body that is responsible for the fixing of the tax rate practically without authority to limit or prescribe the way in which the money that it must appropriate shall be spent.

The experiment has been tried in a number of places, and tried successfully, of making the school department a separate entity in the municipal government. It makes up its own budget and it fixes the rate of tax that shall be paid for the support of schools entirely separate from the money to be expended by the city for other purposes. This system makes it possible to hold the school authorities to strict accountability for the cost of running the schools. It fixes responsibility clearly and distinctly. It is probably some such system as this that Lowell will ultimately decide to adopt.

THE IRISH SITUATION

The castle authorities in Ireland thought they would overawe the people by the prompt execution of prisoners in groups of half a dozen or more at a time. The only result thus far has been to goad the people to desperation so that they are willing to go to any extreme in meeting the crown forces. If the executive persists in its policy of executing all the men arrested as active participants in the rebellion and sometimes even inactive sympathizers, the republican army may adopt tactics that will be more embarrassing to the crown.

Thus far, when the republicans made arrests of policemen or Black and Tans, in most cases they disarmed their prisoners and let them go, without insult or indignity of any kind. In cases where they have held special prisoners for weeks, they treated them well, never descending to the methods of the Black and Tans, who subjected their victims to slow and excruciating torture.

Lloyd George seems to have decided to have the crown forces keep on killing and being killed, with the hope that the Irish will eventually be completely subdued. President De Valera urges the republicans to keep up their resistance until justice is granted to Ireland in the form of real autonomy and not the present camouflage home rule provided for in the partition bill. It is demonstrated to the world that British government in Ireland has been smashed to smithereens.

THE PACKING HOUSE PROBLEM

Inasmuch as a majority of the members of the chamber of commerce failed to vote on the packing house referendum, the result of the voting cannot be regarded as expressing the prevailing sentiment of the members on the proposition. The responsibility of deciding the problem still rests with the board of health and the municipal council, and the precise problem to be solved is:

(1) Whether, all things considered, the industry could be conducted at the Harvard brewery plant without becoming a nuisance to the neighborhood from a sanitary point of view, and—

(2) Whether the petitioners, if licensed, would incur the expense of conducting the business by the most sanitary methods.

(3) Whether, as alleged, the industry, if located there, would require any expensive change in the sewers in that vicinity in order to dispose of the waste products without becoming offensive at any point.

With the first two questions decided in the affirmative, there would be little to fear from the slaughter house. As to the third, if there should be any expensive sewer changes, because of the nature of the business, it would not be unreasonable to ask the company to pay for them, although this has not been the usual practice in dealing with other industries.

The Boston Globe tells us that "in the state capital at Madison, Wis., is an old carriage that was drawn by a yoke of oxen and used by Daniel Webster." Within not much more than 30 miles of Lowell is the old homestead in which Daniel made his first noise in the world.

A remarkable feature of the packing house warfare has been that the noisiest arguments on both sides seem to have come from persons whose knowledge of such establishments is on a par with what they know about the fourth dimension.

If it proves true that 95 bottles of beer a month are to be available on a doctor's prescription, we may expect to see the ex-barkeepers burning the midnight oil as they struggle with correspondence school courses in medicine.

What a front-page story there should be if Reporter Josephus Daniels and Reporter William Jennings Bryan were assigned to "cover" a meeting of the strange collection that Harding has gathered into his cabinet.

Perhaps, when people get thoroughly tired of grumbling about poor streets, some of the time now being wasted in making a noise may be utilized to bring pressure to bear to improve conditions.

Four Boston university girls students refrained from eating candy and wearing high-heeled shoes for a month; which makes us hopeful until we learn that there were 556 others who did otherwise.

A health note advises us: "Health demands that we dress according to the weather." Apparently, if business interferes with keeping up with the procession of many changes, cut out the business.

"A family by the name of Robbins moved into town this week," writes a suburban correspondent. Next the neighbors will be saying, "I've seen the first one today."

Nearly all Boston marriages are reported to be of people nearly or over 30 years old. Even Cupid seems to get cold feet in the frigid atmosphere of our neighboring town.

Lady Astor was held up recently by a man who threatened to kill her. She started to talk to him and he ran away. We have heard of the might of his feminine tongue before.

And the chamber of commerce's organizer, the protection of taxi drivers, still lies on, or under the municipal council table.

"Your Easter Hat Is Ready," says an ad. Perhaps the money to pay for it is also ready, but someone has neglected to tell us about it.

Since military loves company, Lowell can shake hands with Beverly which also has the largest budget ever this year.

The annual debate is here again—shall we keep 'em on or shall we take 'em off?

SEEN AND HEARD

The fellow who uses the term "bad citizen" as applied to another may need a little watching himself.

President Harding says there is no place in federal service for "the mere officeholder." Here's a broom, Warren.

Bonar Law quits the British cabinet and retires to private life. Lloyd George is about the only one of the war chiefs that hasn't checked out. Fleeting is fame.

A Palm beach man was found with a quart and half of liquor which he said he was using on his sore foot. The authorities held that to be a lame excuse.

We would advise the writer of the anonymous letter dealing with alleged trouble over a "lady" at a camp not many miles away to tell his story to the police authorities of that district.

Immigrants, landing in New York from Ellis Island, beat up an agitator advocating overthrow of the government. Reform of deplorable conditions at Ellis Island might make all immigrants like that.

Former Atty. Gen. Palmer says "the ruling that physicians may prescribe beer may mean beer at the soda fountain." Page the fellow who wrote, "There, little barroom, do not cry, you'll be a drug store by and by."

Coal That Is Useful
"The advantages of the last coal you sent me are so obvious that I shall be glad if you will send me the same kind again," wrote a man to his coal dealer. "After passing unscathed through the furnace grate I have managed to erect with what remains more than half the boundary wall at the rear of the premises, and I wish to finish the job."—Rehebel Sunday Herald.

Wrong Conclusion
"Call it (to Mrs. Jones)—Perhaps, reading your letter, our husband is to join our society. The subscription is only 10 cents for a life member."

Mrs. Jones—What is your society?
"Call it—The Society for the Repression of Crime."

Mrs. Jones—I don't think my husband would want to join that society.
"Call it—Why not?"

Mrs. Jones—Because he makes his living by crime.
"Call it (quite surprised)—What? Is your husband a criminal?"

Mrs. Jones—O, no; he's only a policeman.—Los Angeles Times.

An Aid to Lovers
A device that will make the human heartbeat audible hundreds of miles away was demonstrated the other day at the army signal corps laboratory in Washington. It's a simple contraption, and can be used over telephone wires for any distance. An electrical stethoscope is placed over the heart. Over the telephone wires go the vibrations from the valves of the heart. These vibrations are repeated by a photograph at the other end of the line. The sound being magnified thousands of times so that it is more like the chugging of a steam engine. By using this device, a physician in New York might make a stethoscopic study of the heart action of a patient in San Francisco. And, too, brought to its highest utility, might not the lover at work in his office convey to his sweetheart in a far-off summer resort his undying love? If the plotter of the heart is proof of love and devotion, here's the ideal long distance method of conveying the message. Still, a lover might make the error of holding the stethoscope over his watch. In the interest of harmony, science had better keep out of the love field.

Bellows of Dogs
I wonder in what distant place
Brave little Patsy's bark is heard,
Where Froo-Froo frolics with Billie Grace,
And Satchel begs for bones deferred;
Where Russel sports his tufts absurd,
And plucky Carlo holds at bay
A cat by naughty writhes spurred—
Where are the dogs of yesterday?

Where's Pete, who dearly loved a race,
And Snip, who never lost a bird,
And Peg, whose melancholy face
But lately beguiled me with a stare;
And Gyp, whose ancestry was blurred
By roving grandfathers, great and gay,
Who well, but not too wisely erred,
Where are the dogs of yesterday?

Where's Bruce, whose cleverness could trace
The faintest scent, however sturred;
And Tix, whose persistence bade
At no one's garbage pile demure;
And Spritz, by any trouble stirred
Her cold nose in one's hand to lay
With comfort deeper than a word—
Where are the dogs of yesterday?

Princes, to whom these, undeterred,
Gave faith and loyalty always—
Surely some spot the heavens girl—
Where are the dogs of yesterday?

MAN ABOUT TOWN

James F. Miskella will be missed in many circles in which he was accustomed to move. He was a few men were in greater demand as a presiding officer or as a toastmaster than he. He filled such places with commendable ability and a fine sense of diplomacy and tact. I remember an occasion in 1905 when he did himself proud at a big St. Patrick's night banquet in the Associated Hall. He was introduced by James O'Sullivan in a most complimentary manner. Miskella was perhaps as eloquent and able among the galaxy of speakers who were present that evening as at any other time during his career. I heard him many times since in various capacities and before various organizations, and on every occasion his efforts were genuinely creditable and impressively pleasing. To the source men of the Burkes, the Mathews and the McGills, who were just getting acquainted with the vicissitudes of parliamentary law, he was a careful adviser for he knew Cushing's manual and Deane's manual and their application to every emergency. He was always a gentleman, a kindly, modest, sympathetic man, whose heart beat in tune to the aspirations of the Irish and his ardor for liberty and freedom. His great always for those qualities which reflect credit on the individual who practices them and he was the best of a devoted family. His memory will long be green among those who knew "Jim" Miskella as the upright, conscientious citizen that he was.

NO FEAR NOW

OF INDIGESTION

A Host of People Seem to Thrive on What Used to Produce Indigestion Before They Reached of Stuart's Dyaepsin Tablets

When the stomach becomes sour, with gasiness and heartburn due to indigestion or dyspepsia, relief may be had by one or two Stuart's Dyaepsin Tablets.

Tablets. Simply chew them, no hot water nor any other dillers for a stomach perhaps already too much overworked. These tablets supply to the stomach the alkaline effect which is what relieves the sour acid condition. They also contain pancreatin to help digest the starchy foods, such as potatoes, rice, oatmeal, white flour, etc. Get a 6-cent box of Stuart's Dyaepsin Tablets, have them on hand at all times and thus have no fear of indigestion or dyspepsia. The fact that these tablets are on sale everywhere in the U. S. and Canada shows how generally recognized they are as an efficient aid when the dyspeptic stomach needs a little help—adv.

POOLING OF FARMERS' GRAIN PROPOSED

(The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 22.—Pooling of farmers' grain, either on a national or local scale, constitutes the outstanding feature of the national co-operating marketing plan proposed by the committee of seventeen, Chairman C. H. Gustafson said here today, explaining its details. The committee, whose full name is the Farmers' Grain Marketing Committee of Seventeen, is holding state meetings this month preparatory to a ratification conference in Chicago, April 6. The committee represents co-operative organizations of farmers interested in grain marketing, prominent among them the American Farm Bureau Federation.

As an alternative to the pooling plans, farmers may sell direct. "The national pooling plan calls for pooling grain with a central agency, selling by grade and then distributing the profits equally to each contributor to the pool," Mr. Gustafson said. "This would operate to give each producer the average price for grains of a certain grade which he contributed to the pool. It would insure the producer the average price for the year. Pooling product in this manner has reached its highest development among the California co-operative organizations."

"Products so pooled pass out of the control of the individual producer and the grain is sold by the directors of the pool at the time that they deem most opportune."

"Provision is also made for a local pool by members of a single community. In both local and national pools the control is centralized and the selling price averaged."

"The direct sale plan allows farmers who so desire to bring their grain to the co-operative elevator and sell on the current market quotations as is done at the present time at privately owned elevators. Further, they can avail themselves of the warehousing facilities of the co-operative elevators and terminals and not sell until weeks or months later. Producers who dispose of their grain in this manner share equally in the profits of the warehousing facilities, export corporation and other national co-operative departments on the basis of the number of bushels which they deliver to the elevators."

"For those farmers who do not wish to enter a pool or to sell direct, there is another avenue of reaching the markets. One farmer or several farmers who have sufficient grain to make up one or more carloads, may consign grain by the carload through the co-operative elevator to co-operative marketing agencies to be located at the different terminal markets, such as Chicago and Minneapolis. The grain would then be sold at market price upon arrival. By handling his grain in this manner the farmer will pay only the actual overhead cost of marketing it."

"Altogether, he believes the new plan is suitably broad to allow the producer to use his own judgment and market his products in the way that he considers best, while, at the same time, he has the benefit of a complete national marketing machine that has no purpose or excuse for existence but to protect his interests and return a larger per cent of the market value to the consumer. The plan is based on the rights of the consumer. Of these three alternatives, the method of marketing which proves most satisfactory and more nearly returns a price that will make farming profitable, will be the one that is adopted."

CONVICTED FORGER FREED BY HARDING

BOSTON, March 23.—The pardon by President Harding of Dr. Harmon MacKnight, a prisoner at the Greenfield Jail who has served one year of a five-year sentence for using the mails in a fraudulent scheme, was announced in a telegram to United States Marshal Duane yesterday. The message sent by Attorney General Daugherty said that the president had commuted MacKnight's sentence to expire at once, and directed that he was to be released forthwith.

MacKnight, a man of 60 years, has had a petition for pardon pending for some time, the grounds being illness. He was found guilty two years ago of fraudulent use of the mails in connection with deeds to extensive timber lands that were part of the estate of the late millionaire, John P. Cassady of Bangor. The deeds sent through the mails by MacKnight were held to be forgeries. MacKnight claimed they were executed by the millionaire several years ago in a deal which he closed with him in North Carolina. MacKnight, a lawyer and a physician by profession, argued his defense in the federal district court and the court of appeals, and took it also to the supreme court unsuccessfully.

ADMITTS R. R. HAD SPY SYSTEM

Gen. Atterbury Questioned
at R. R. Labor Board Hearing Yesterday

Walsh Charges Spies and
Arsenals, Maintained to
Handle Labor Troubles

CHICAGO, March 23.—Charges that the Pennsylvania railroad was fighting for the open shop and that the road maintained a spy system before the war, were the subjects of a heated, all-day discussion before the Railroad Labor Board yesterday.

Brig. Gen. W. W. Atterbury, vice-president of the Pennsylvania, charged the unions with attempting to force the closed shop, and Frank P. Walsh, labor attorney, retailed with declarations that the Pennsylvania had maintained spies and arsenals to take care of labor troubles.

The whole day's testimony revolved about Gen. Atterbury's stand that he could negotiate agreements with his own employees, but that no just and reasonable agreements applicable to the entire country could be written for anybody. He also maintained the right of the minority to a voice and charged the unions with assuming to represent all employees and using coercion in attempting to make them join the union.

Attorney Walsh opened his charges of a spy system on the Pennsylvania with a statement that $800,000 had been spent in 1911 on the road's police system. Gen. Atterbury explained that this amount covered all protective measures, such as crossing watchmen and similar employees. Under questioning, however, he admitted that the road did maintain a spy system but declared he could not say how much had been spent on that department.

When Mr. Walsh asked the witness if the road did not have "little arsenals at various points where you kept guns and revolvers," Chairman R. M. Burton halted the examination on the ground that it was getting away from the inquiry ordered by the board. Several board members joined in the later discussion but O. A. Wharton, labor member, finally insisted that the examinations continue.

Mr. Walsh then explained that the rule on discrimination against any employee because of union affiliation was the "most important rule there is." His questions, he said, were intended to show that "a situation might arise and had arisen on the Pennsylvania where disputes between employees and the road could not be settled despite Gen. Atterbury's statement that all the men on the road had grown up together."

Dr. MacKnight Leaves Jail a Free Man

GREENFIELD, March 23.—Dr. Harmon P. MacKnight walked out of the jail here today a free man, under presidential pardon, after serving nine months of a five years' sentence for fraudulent use of the mails. He went to Boston but said he had no plans for his future. MacKnight, who is 60 years of age, had been working in the kitchen and on the farm during his imprisonment.

Louis Kurz, Artist, of Chicago, Dead

CHICAGO, March 23.—Louis Kurz, a widely known artist and friend of President Lincoln, is dead at his home here. His sketches of the battlefields of the Civil war were the first to be issued after the close of the conflict.

bulletin which informed shop craft employees that there would be "no seniority provisions for, or positions provided for" any other than union employees and members of the organization affiliated with the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor. This bulletin was a direct attempt, Gen. Atterbury asserted, to force non-union men to join the union under fear of losing their seniority rights. A closed shop, either union or non-union, was denounced by the general, who said a worker should have the right to be or not to be a union man.

Allegations against the Pennsylvania were in turn brought up by Mr. Walsh, who read a copy of a letter purported to have been written by I. W. Geer, general manager of the St. Louis-Columbus division of the Pennsylvania, in which supervisory employees were ordered "even to resort to defamation of all labor organizations, if necessary," to obtain certain information. The letter asked officials to inquire into the attitude of employees regarding proposed wage reductions and was dated March 10, 1921. Gen. Atterbury declared he had never heard of the letter and after calling Mr. Geer in St. Louis by telephone, announced that Mr. Geer denied he had written such a letter and that no such letter had been written with his authority.

The matter would be investigated at once, Gen. Atterbury said. Two votes on piece work taken by the unions, showing 95 per cent. of the employees in favor of the hourly basis of pay, were not fair, Gen. Atterbury said, and declined to accept the union figures as fair.

The open ballot as conducted by these organizations is not a fair nor a decent one," said the witness. "To have the men vote so that they may be intimidated if they don't vote the way their officers want them to vote is not a decent way to ask a decent man to vote."

Taking up Gen. Atterbury's minority reports as chairman of the Railway Executive labor committee in which he stood against national boards of adjustment, Mr. Walsh opened a series of questions on the statements of the minority group. Gen. Atterbury declared national boards would lead to nationalization and syndicalism and cited William Z. Foster as "a syndicalist and A. F. of L. leader" representative of the class by which railroads were menaced. The general also read from a declaration of principles by the Cleveland chamber of commerce and signed among others by Warren S. Stone, president of the engineers and W. G. Lee, head of the trainmen. This declaration said, "freedom of contract and of labor is a principle which should be maintained and employers should negotiate agreements for their own guidance. This principle, Gen. Atterbury said, was the same on which the railroads took their stand.

None of the Spanish railways is fitted with any signal system.

When Mr. Walsh asked the witness if the road did not have "little arsenals at various points where you kept guns and revolvers," Chairman R. M. Burton halted the examination on the ground that it was getting away from the inquiry ordered by the board.

Several board members joined in the later discussion but O. A. Wharton, labor member, finally insisted that the examinations continue.

Mr. Walsh then explained that the rule on discrimination against any employee because of union affiliation was the "most important rule there is." His questions, he said, were intended to show that "a situation might arise and had arisen on the Pennsylvania where disputes between employees and the road could not be settled despite Gen. Atterbury's statement that all the men on the road had grown up together."

Gen. Atterbury introduced a union

Bayaria Not to Dissolve Militia

PARIS, March 23.—Decision not to dissolve militia organizations and the Einwohnerwehr, or citizen guard in Bavaria, has been reached by a unanimous vote by the Bavarian government, says a Berlin despatch to the Journal.

with me at length. I am convinced that the Japanese cabinet possesses a really human viewpoint. They are constantly trying to create a liberal sentiment in opposition to the military policy of the conservatives. Liberal sentiments are growing all the time in Japan, and are fighting the militaryists, who may be compared to the war party in Germany prior to the debacle of the central powers. Before I left Osaka, called the Chicago of Japan, and a city which became humanely prosperous through war industries, I was invited to address an audience of prominent men. I told them of how the Japanese against infanticide, and how in Massachusetts and how new physicians must report all cases of infants who develop optic infections. I told them how, as a result of these activities on the part of the state, the authorities at Perkins institute for the blind expect to go out of business within 15 or 20 years. The governor, speaking after I had finished, said that I had made him ashamed of himself. "I should be taking such action," he said, "and the people should be backing me up." A prominent physician, who had spent several years in a famous London hospital, then testified that such a practice would be a Godsend in Osaka. For blindness is one of the curses of Japan. The governor said he had decided to call a meeting of doctors the very night following the meeting. Officials whom I met as soon as I had reached Tokio told me that the governor had reported the meeting and his conclusions therefrom at headquarters in the capital. "Why," I asked them, "would it not be a fine thing for you to believe that they did. In Japan I found the native Christians asking themselves what they could do to advance the cause of human welfare. Business and professional men, the first fruits of industrial endeavor, have just as forward-looking and altruistic attitude as could be wished. They want to help their fellow men in some big way."

The northern and southern sections have been warring for years. The day and they cannot be demobilized while the government owes them this money. While foreign loans to pay off the military are being negotiated, new debts accrue in the way of pay, and conditions are as bad as they were prior to the loan. Something will have to be done some time to stop this war.

The national government is ineffective. The country is overrun with bandits, and the soldiers are in cahoots with these robbers. Most of the governors are what we would designate grafters. Business men who raise their heads in prosperity are taxed and bled until they are ruined. There are, however, a few wise governors, who are noted for justice, and the fame of their names has spread throughout the country.

A Benevolent People
The Chinese are a benevolent people. Benevolence, indeed, is one of the primary maxims in the creed of Confucius. Business men give liberally to all charitable causes. I have seldom met more ingenious and open hearted people. They are curious, eager minded, and most grateful to the Americans for having used the Boxer indemnity for the education in America of Chinese young men and women. In China the school ranks, which even higher than the soldier. The four leading Chinese diplomats are products of St. John's college, an American Christian school. Yet women are not treated well in China. A Chinaman's greatest bugaboo is to "lose face," and this would happen—his reputation would be ruined—if he was seen on the street with his wife. The students who come to this country should be allowed to board in American homes and learn of our wholesome home life. They are eager to do this, but Chinese students are often told they are not wanted when they apply for lodgings.

In India social conditions are bad, due to early marriages, for one thing. Girls of 12 years are married to boys of fourteen. For 2000 years this has been the prevailing custom. The result of immature parents is that three children out of four die. The caste system is another dire evil. The country is closed by stating that American influence in the Orient, with American colleges there, will do more to produce real internationalism than anything else.

ADVERSE REPORT ON VACCINATION BILL

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, March 23.—An adverse report was filed yesterday by the committee on public health on the bill, introduced on petition of Dr. Alfred Worcester and others, to require the vaccination of pupils attending private schools.

That an attempt may be made to overturn the report of the committee is indicated by the fact that four members—Reps. Ryder of Middleborough, Barker of Lawrence, Hardest of Framingham and Kelleher of Cambridge—have dissented from the report. There are no dissenters among the senate members of the committee, and since the report has been filed in the senate it is likely to be accepted there, and with the prestige of acceptance in the senate it may get by the house without a contest.

Yesterday the senate, with very little debate, accepted the adverse committee reports on both of the so-called maternity bills. This probably means the end, for a time at least, of this sort of legislation.

Adverse reports were filed yesterday on two bills providing that in letting contracts for public works only citizens of the United States shall be eligible for consideration, and that in employment of public works preference shall be given to citizens.

The senate accepted without debate adverse reports on several bills regarding banking institutions to invest a large proportion of their funds in real estate mortgages. The upper branch also accepted a report of reference to the next general court on the recommendation of special commission that a new building, or an additional wing on the state house, be erected for the use of the supreme court, the state library, and the state department of education.

Held in $15,000 for Stealing Liquor

SALEM, March 23.—Joseph W. McGlinchey, of Charlestown, was held in $15,000 by Judge George B. Sears at the first district court in this city for a hearing April 1 on a charge of breaking and entering the summer home of Lester Leland, at Manchester, Mass., March 14, and stealing a quantity of liquor from the cellar thereof. Thomas Duris, arrested on a similar charge, was discharged as he could not be identified as one of the "bogs" revenue officers who visited the Leland house and got away with some $6000 worth of liquor.

Make 5000 Autos a Day in Detroit

DETROIT, March 23.—Production of automobiles in the Detroit area has reached approximately 5000 cars a day, according to a survey of the leading factories. Accessories plants also report a steady improvement in business. While admitting that production is but little ahead of the demand, manufacturers say they regard present conditions as showing a permanent improvement. Nearly all the larger factories are adding to their forces daily. The Ford Motor Co., this week resumed a six-day schedule and the Dodge Co., announced it had reached one-third normal production.

These methods have been combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. Millions of people have come to employ it. You can see the results wherever you look—in glistening teeth, in teeth you envy, maybe.

A new dental era has begun, due to these discoveries. And these are benefits everyone should share. So you are urged to let this 10-Day Tube show what Pepsodent can do.

Dental science has for years studied to combat film. Ways have now been found to do it. Able authorities have proved those methods by many careful tests. Now leading dentists everywhere are urging their daily use.

Pepsodent brings five distinct effects. All are apparent, some are quick. A few days' use will leave no doubt about them. And a little book will tell you what each one means to you.

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva to digest starch deposits that cling.

The alkalinity of the saliva is multiplied at once. This is to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

Every application brings the Pepsodent effects. Together they mean tooth protection like you never had before.

Watch these effects. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears.

Compare your teeth now with your teeth in ten days. Then judge this new-day method by what you see and feel and know.

Present this coupon, with your name and address filled in, to any store named. It is good for a 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent.

AMERICANS SENTENCED

Four Germans Who Aided Them in Attempt to Kidnap Bergdoll Jailed

MOSBACH, Baden, March 23.—Carl Neuf and Franz Zimmer, American detectives, have been sentenced to prison for "illegal assumption of power" in attempting to arrest and abduct Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, American draft evader, in Eberbach last January. Neuf, against whom a charge of "inflicting bodily injury" also has been preferred, was given 15 months and Zimmer six months. The additional charge against Neuf arose from a bullet wound suffered by a young woman when a revolver was fired during the attempted abduction.

Four Germans tried as accomplices of the Americans were sent to jail for terms varying from 6 to 16 months.

Bergdoll on Stand
MOSBACH, Baden, March 23. (By the Associated Press).—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, deserter from the American army, took the stand yesterday in the trial of Carl Neuf and Franz Zimmer, the two Americans who with the aid of four Germans, attempted to arrest Bergdoll at Eberbach last January. Bergdoll testified that Zimmer leaned against the automobile and pointed a revolver at him. Neuf, he further testified, aimed his revolver at him and fired, the first bullet hitting a young woman, Lina Blum, the second entering one of the tires.

Zimmer denied having drawn a weapon, he said if he had he would have fired. Neuf made a long statement detailing the nature of his activities as a detective for the American military forces at Coblenz. He asserted that he had succeeded with the aid of the German authorities in apprehending numerous American deserters in various sections of Germany. He had been on Bergdoll's trail for a long time and he said he had sought a German police vice for his American passport to avoid complications at Eberbach. He had sought to kidnap the American slacker in order to demand a ransom to Stuttgart, as Neuf believed that the German police at Eberbach were disinclined to assist him despite the fact that the police authorities at Coblenz had given him credentials which he understood entitled him to operate in unoccupied parts of Germany.

Two police officials from Coblenz testified that the German authorities were frequently called on to co-operate with the American military authorities and that Neuf had often made trips into unoccupied sections of Germany with their knowledge and consent to seize American fugitives from justice. The German police officials who worked with Neuf spoke favorably of him.

denise. She apparently recovered from the shock and returned to her Frankfurt avenue cottage, where she was alone in the house with two maid-servants.

Gas odors were detected shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday morning and an investigation resulted in the discovery of her lifeless body. Every indication pointed to suicide. The woman was dead when the doctor arrived. County Physician Louis R. Souder made an investigation into the circumstances surrounding Mrs. Owens' death and later issued a certificate setting forth suicide.

Mrs. Owens retired about midnight, going to the room usually occupied by her husband. About 1 o'clock strong odors of gas aroused the maids who, not finding Mrs. Owens in the doctor's room, went in search of her. They found her in the kitchen seated before the gas range. Every burner had been turned on and the room was so filled with gas that the girls were nearly overcome.

The bereaved woman had taken her husband's clothing, including all the

"HORROR ON THE RHINE"

Man Who Spoke at Recent N. Y. Meeting Tried and Expelled From Legion

NEW YORK, March 23.—Alexander E. Anderson, former lieutenant colonel of the 15th Infantry, was notified today by the New York county executive committee of the American Legion that he had been expelled from the Legion because of his utterances at the recent "Horror on the Rhine" meeting at Madison Square Garden. This meeting was called as a protest against the use by the French of negro troops in the occupied zone of Germany and later was condemned by the Legionaries as propaganda to destroy the cordial relations existing between the United States and her allies.

The committee voted unanimously for Anderson's expulsion after a trial that had lasted more than six hours. His participation in the meeting was declared to be prejudicial to the best interests of the Legion. He did not attend the trial, but sent a letter claiming the committee lacked jurisdiction in that the 15th regiment post of which he was the former commander, ceased to exist last December.

Anderson's case is said to be the first instance in which a member of the American Legion has been tried and expelled.

IRISH TROUBLES COST BRITAIN $128,000,000

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Frank P. Walsh announced last night that as "counsel for the republic of Ireland," he had submitted to the senate judiciary committee a memorandum which he said, showed that the cost of maintaining the British military forces in Ireland, together with payments on Irish claims, if made as submitted, would amount to a sum equal to one-half of the annual interest on the British debt to the United States. The judiciary committee is investigating loans.

Mr. Walsh in his memorandum estimated that British operations in Ireland this year will cost more than $12,000,000, allowing approximately $20,000,000 for expenditures of the Royal Irish constabulary, $62,000,000 for the army of occupation, and $36,000,000 for payment of claims against the government for destruction by British forces.

The report of the secretary of the treasury for 1920, Mr. Walsh asserted, shows that the annual interest on the British debt would be $209,840,000.

AYER MURDER CASE

Indications Point to Plea of Insanity in Behalf of Drifoly

AYER, March 23.—Insanity was indicated as a part of the defense which may be offered in behalf of Eugene R. Drifoly, 55, a Littleton farmer, at his arraignment in the Ayer district court before Judge Warren Atwood on the charge of having murdered his stepson, Vincent Paul Planch, 19, a second student, early Sunday morning.

If the defendant is indicted for murder he may be examined by a physician appointed by the court at the request of counsel.

At the request of Asst. Dist. Atty. Frank Goldman the case was continued until March 30 and Drifoly was committed to the East Cambridge jail without bail, where he was taken by Court Officer Thomas F. Mullin. When the charge was read to him by Clerk D. Parson, the defendant arose to his feet but remained silent when called on to plead. He stared vacantly before him and remained mute, despite repeated promptings from his counsel, Atty. John D. Carney, to answer "Not guilty." The attorney then asked the court to accept a plea of not guilty.

ARREST UNION LEADERS

Representatives of Four Brotherhoods Lodged in Jail at Harrison, Ark.

HARRISON, Ark., March 21.—Representatives of four international railway brotherhoods, who came to Arkansas recently, in connection with the strike of employees of the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad, have been arrested and bound over to the circuit court.

The officials are W. G. Anderson, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; L. M. Edwards, of the Order of Railway Telegraphers; W. J. Potts of the dispatchers' union, and C. M. Carey of the Order of Railway Conductors, all of Chicago.

The arrests were made on the order of the circuit court, but without the filing of charges. It was intimated that the men were lodged in jail for their own protection. They had been warned by a mass meeting to leave the state.

MOURNED AS DEAD, MAN RETURNS RICH

NEW YORK, March 23.—Mourning as dead for 15 months, after his "body" found in his motor boat awash on the Brooklyn shore, had been identified and buried, Paul Gesmer, 52-year-old inventor, started acquaintances in Stapleton, Staten Island, yesterday by driving into town in a bright yellow limousine and telling them that he was 4500 richer than when they saw him last. His friends were puzzled last night over the identity of the man who had been buried.

Gesmer disappeared on Nov. 1, 1919 and nothing was heard or seen of him until yesterday. He was a familiar character in Stapleton where he lived in the back room of a dilapidated machine shop. He specialized in inventing problems of machinery, keeping to himself the greater part of the time. In the coldest weather he seldom wore a coat or hat, having been advised to "keep out in the air" as a cure for a nervous disorder from which he suffered.

The body that was buried as Gesmer's was found in a motor boat, he owned, battered and awash on the South Brooklyn water front. Positive identification was made by several persons who knew Gesmer. He was unable to explain yesterday how his launch had been found on the Brooklyn shore, unless it had been stolen.

To the curious he explained that his prosperity was due to royalties on machine patents he had won in a law suit in Mason, Ohio. He then bought a car, he said, made a transcontinental tour and decided to come back to his old home here.

"I know nothing about the dead man or the burial," he said. "I'm going to open another machine shop and get to work."

LIQUOR SQUAD CHARGES

License Board Hears Complaints Against Store and Lodging House Keepers

Several proprietors of stores and lodging houses were haled before the license commission last evening, as the result of charges made by members of the liquor squad that they had violated the conditions of their permits. No final action was taken, however, the requests of counsel for a week's continuance being granted. Aristides Chakarian, recently convicted of illegal sale of liquor in the police court, and sentenced to three months in jail, together with a $150 fine, was one of the storekeepers called up before the commission. Officers Wynn and Moore asked that his license to run a store and lodging house on Middlesex street be revoked, on the grounds of his conviction of a few days ago. It was also contended that Chakarian was implicated last autumn in the theft of many blankets from Camp Devens. Continuance was granted, when counsel for the Middlesex street storekeeper had complained that there was no specific charge lodged against his client, Peter Mostakakis, also proprietor of a Middlesex street store, and Manooz Mickellian, who conducts an establishment on Central street, were charged with violations of the law. The latter did not appear, and it was announced that if he fails to respond to a written notice which will be sent to him, his license will be revoked. Heila Korner, who holds a pool room license on Merrimack street, was also notified that his case will be heard at next week's meeting. Theodore Pettijohn and Louis Prankalos desired a joint license for a pool room on Gorham street. The liquor officers took exception to the connection of the latter with the enterprise, as he has been three times in jail on liquor charges. Prankalos, however, would not withdraw from the partnership. The establishment is running without a license, it is stated, and may be closed by the police.

How Nature Rebuilds Flesh

Nature's method of rebuilding a weakened and run-down system, of giving new flesh to people who are thin and under-weight, is to take from the food that is eaten certain proper elements which by the wonderful process known as metabolism are really turned into tissue and flesh. Some portion of this food also becomes body energy or strength.

When you take Father John's Medicine to build new flesh you are using exactly the same method. This old fashioned food medicine contains those elements which nature makes use of in rebuilding flesh and strength and these elements are so prepared that they are easily absorbed even by a system which is weak and run-down. You know you are safe when you give Father John's medicine to any of the family because it is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form.—Adv.
